CITY COUNCIL ASKS ACTION FOR RIVER PROJECT

Glendale's Officials Favor Senate Bill No. 178 On Colorado Dam Plan

Urging the adoption of Senate bill 178, providing for the Colorado river dam project to supply water to Southern California, the City Council today passed a resolution favoring the measure and instructed City Manager V. B. Stone to send telegrams to all Southern California senators and assemblymen in the state Legislature to exert their utmost to secure its passage.

Immediate action on the project is necessary, in the opinion of Stone, if future development of the San Fernando valley is to be provided for. The San Fernando valley can easily accommodate a population of 1,000,000, he said; Glendale 250,000 and other valley cities in proportion. Los Angeles, he said, will be a city of 6,000,000 and the entire metropolitan area will probably have a population of 10,000,000 within twenty years.

No Time to Delay

"In that event all the water in the Owens river valley will not supply the requirements here," Stone declared. "And because the work on the project cannot be completed for a period of from eighteen to twenty years after it is started, there is no time to delay if development of Southern California is not to be retarded."

Stone aided in the drafting of an amendment to the bill that limits the number of members on the board of directors and fixes the voting power by assessed valuation rather than by population. The amendment has already been adopted by the Legislature.

Petition Tabled

Branded an "attempt to put one of Glendale's first and biggest industries out of business" by Mayor Spencer Robinson, the council tabled a petition signed by residents of the industrial area in which the Los Angeles Basket Co. is located to "take the necessary steps to cease the nuisance created by the factory."

The petition, signed by thirteen residents of the district, cited no instances of creation of a nuisance. City Manager Stone, however,

Third Day Of High Water In Northern Section Finds Rivers Swollen

BOSTON, March 31—Rivers and brooks of northern New England were far above their banks today, the third day of flood conditions.

Wheeler of Montana, charged in an interview with newspapermen here today while he stopped over en route to Great Falls, Mont., where he will go on trial April 16 on an indictment alleging that he represented a client before a federal bureau after he was elected senator.

The Washington indictment, Senator Wheeler characterized as "rank political presecution."

The biennial trading stamp bill was killed in the Assembly judiciary committee.

DOLLAR LINE'S BID TAKEN ON SHIPS

Five President Type Vessels Sold for $5,625,000; Pacific Mail Loses

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The United States Shipping board today accepted the bid of the Dollar Line Steamship company for five "President" type ships operated in the Oriental trade by the Pacific Mail lines.

The Dollar line offered $5,625,000 in cash for the vessels, as against a bid of $6,750,000 in cash and stock by the Pacific Mail.

The action followed several weeks of extended discussion over the merits of the Dollar cash offer.

The sale is understood to mark the first definition of the board's policy in its projected retirement from the active direction of America's national commercial fleet. It marks the first complete service yet sold.

Issues Statement

Chairman T. V. O'Connor, in a statement, declared:

"The Stanley Dollar bid is clear cut. He offers to buy five vessels at $1,125,000 per ship; one-third in cash, the balance secured by first mortgage; with interest at

RAIN RESULTS IN BENEFIT TO SOUTH'S GROWERS

Showers Continue And Aid Crops; Glendale Record Passes Last Season's

With .12 of an inch of rain falling over Glendale and vicinity this morning, the seasonal record to date stands at 6.85 inches and is leading the seasonal record of one years ago, 6.48 inches, according to H. E. Bartlett of 333 West Broadway, observer for The Glendale Evening News.

Early this morning the sun was shining, but lowering clouds and a wintry feel in the air hinted that ere the day progressed showers might fall.

About 10 o'clock the sun was gone and big raindrops began to splash over the city. By noontime the rain was falling steadily, promising to boost the seasonal record higher before nightfall.

While gutters in some districts were filled with small streams at noon, the rain was not heavy enough to bring waters rushing down from the canyon and hill districts.

The rain, following that of Sunday, is proving very beneficial. It assures big crops, and, of course, more prosperity for Southern California.

Rain Adds To Supply Of Water In Mountains

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—Rain, believed to be a continuation of the storm which struck Northern California yesterday, started to fall in Los Angeles and vicinity shortly after 10 a. m. today. While complete reports were lacking, it was believed the precipitation was general throughout Southern California and possibly Imperial valley.

The rain of Sunday brought joy to the hearts of ranchers and truck gardeners as the crops were badly in need of water and the rain today gave rise to hope that Southern California may yet receive enough rainfall this year to bring the annual total up to normal.

The rain over the week-end, as well as the storm of today, blanketed the mountains east of here in snow and when the run-off is started a good supply of water is expected to flow into the Los Angeles reservoirs.

HEAVY SNOW CONTINUES IN NORTHERN SECTIONS

White Mantle Interferes With Traffic; Rain Proves Of Big Aid to Crops

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—The heavy rain and wind storm that yesterday held the northern part of the state in its grip was subsiding today. Many small craft were overturned in San Francisco bay as a result of fierce gales.

The storm was moving southward today. Fresno reported it was raining there today and all cities north of San Luis Obispo reported a thorough drenching last night. With partially clearing skies, warmer weather came to the bay regions and Northern California.

Little damage was reported throughout Northern California, in most sections the benefits of the rain far exceeding the damage.

Grain men throughout the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys were reported jubilant, believing that the rain insures a fine crop this summer.

Heavy Rainfall

The heaviest rainfall for the past 24 hours was reported by Santa Rosa where 2.77 inches was measured. Point Reyes was next with 2.44; Red Bluff had 2:30; Orland 2.06; Chico 2.25; San Francisco 1.73; San Luis Obispo .68; Bakersfield a trace and Paso Robles, .42.

Tugs and launches about the San Francisco bay were forced to seek shelter. The fishing schooner Maweema dragged her anchor during the storm and ran into the Standard Oil tanker Captain A. F. Lucas in the San Francisco bay. The schooner's bow was stove in and the tanker's rail, superstructure and smoke stack were damaged.

Continued Rain

Continued rain in the bay region and northward throughout California and Oregon, with snows in the Sierras, was the prospect for today and tonight, according to the San Francisco weather bureau.

Fifteen inches of snow was reported to have fallen at Summit, high in the Sierras, during the week-end, bringing the total snow depth for the season in that mountain range to slightly over four feet.

The postponement was taken after a stormy session in which the defense, during a battle for permission to introduce new evidence, openly hurled a charge of conspiracy at the state.

The court, however, revealed that no new evidence could be heard until after other affidavits had been filed.

DOROTHY WILL STAND TRIAL ON SANITY

Counsel Denies Girl Slayer Of Mother Would Halt Test Of Mind

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—Reports that Dorothy Ellingson, 16-year-old matricide would personally halt her trial for insanity were denied this afternoon by her counsel and the girl herself.

Reports were circulated that the girl intended to rise in her seat and demand that the proceedings to determine her sanity be ended and that her murder trial proceed.

The reports blew up when prompt denial was made and the work of selecting a jury to hear evidence bearing on the girl's sanity commenced this afternoon.

Week for Sanity Trial

Dorothy appeared in court in her usual quiet fashion.

Indicating his belief that it will require at least a week to try the sanity case, Judge Louderback this afternoon excused the jury until April 6.

With jurors present from other departments the questioning as to their eligibility to sit in this case was begun immediately.

FILM HISTORY DIVULGED AT GISH TRIAL

Lillian Was To Have Played 'Peter Pan'; Star's Age 30 Duell Testifies

NEW YORK, March 31.—Lillian Gish was to have starred in "Peter Pan," according to Charles H. Duell, and he related today other bits of untold film history at the hearing before Federal Judge Mack, wherein Duell seeks to restrain Miss Gish from appearing under any management but his own.

Duell testified he conferred with Jesse Lasky, vice-president of the famous Players-Lasky company, when Lasky sought Miss Gish for the leading role in "Peter Pan." This was in August, 1924, Duell said. Miss Gish went to the Famous Players-Lasky studio and film tests were made of her, and after that nothing more was done, Duell testified.

Later there were negotiations for her to star in "The Swan," but Miss Gish was not confident she could do justice to the role, Duell said. He was under direct examination by his brother, Col. Holland Duell.

All money over $400,000 that he put into a film production would be advanced by the Metro Pictures corporation, Duell said he told Miss Gish. He asserted that she was at all times taking a personal interest in his efforts to

LEGISLATION IS OUTLINED FOR VARIED PROBLEMS

National Conference Will Consider Plans to Meet New Developments

WASHINGTON, March 31.—From the remarkable development of radio communication during the past winter are growing many new and interesting problems that must be met by the national radio conference, according to department officials.

Some of the outstanding tasks for consideration are:

1 Recommendations for comprehensive legislation that will remove the present uncertainty from development projects and give industry and science an opportunity to proceed on established lines.

2 Suggestions as to the fixing of exclusive wave bands on which photographs and motion pictures may be transmitted by air.

3 Study of underground radio communication and recommendations as to whether separate wave bands should be provided for subterranean transmission.

4 Plans for an exhaustive investigation of interference to determine range of stations in all localities, results of which would reduce the listeners' troubles by 50 per cent.

Chief Radio Inspector Terrell admitted today that the government is not much nearer to recommendations for radio legislation than last fall, but he said that there is beginning to be some crystallization of views among the experts as the result of experience gained in the winter.

BROWN GIVEN WELCOME BY GLENDALE

Evangelist Greeted By More Than 500 Men At Big Community Dinner

John Brown came back to Glendale last night and after rubbing shoulders with 500 men of the community at a banquet dinner in the basement of the Glendale Presbyterian church, he got on the platform and delivered a regular old-fashioned revival sermon, the equal of which Glendalians heard only when Mr. Brown was at his best during the recent revival here.

When dinner was over and several preliminary numbers on the program had been dispensed with, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Presbyterian church, called on Evangelist Brown, the honor guest of the occasion. After tumultuous applause had died down, Mr. Brown announced that he had a sermon for the men of Glendale. He took as his topic "The Divinity of Christ."

In turn, Evangelist Brown stalwartly defended the doctrine of Christ's divinity, struck a telling blow at the theory of evolution, denounced the teaching of that theory in the schools of the United States as unfair as long as religion is barred from the classroom and strenuously attacked "modernism" in churches as a destructive force destined to undermine everything in religion.

Evolution Hit

Striking at evolution, the evangelist said: "I call your attention to these indisputable facts: Life only can beget life. Life left to itself degenerates rather than builds. Each after its kind is the law of the universe."

Turning on evolution in the schools, he said: "It is high time these refined atheists who are permitted to go into our schools and teach what has never risen beyond a remote theory are forbidden that privilege. If you can't teach religion and the faith of God in the schools, these unbelievers shouldn't be permitted to exploit their teachings against religion."

Citing his belief in the divinity of Christ, the speaker first quoted Biblical proofs. That Christ lived a perfect life, that He taught only as God could teach, that He wrought miracles that only God could have wrought, were quoted as further proof of the divinity of the Savior. His death and resurrection are culminating evidence of the fact that Christ was the Son of God, Mr. Brown said.

Tears filled the eyes of many of the men in the big audience when Evangelist Brown concluded his sermon with a short discourse on heaven.

Comedy Relief

"It's like the young preacher who was bidding his old darky mammy good-bye before leaving for a foreign land," the evangelist concluded. "'If I don't see you again in this world I will hope to see you in heaven, Aunty,' said the young preacher.

"'That will all depend on you, honey,' she said."

Following the dinner that was served by women of the Presbyterian church, Rev. Edmonds called upon H. L. Finlay, who spoke a word of greeting and welcome to John Brown and members of his party, Mrs. Brown, "Bobby" Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Jones.

Mr. Jones, soloist and choir leader with the John Brown party, sang several selections. The Harmony quartet of the Presbyterian church sang a group of numbers, including "Remember Now Thy Creator," "Virginny" and others. Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church, pronounced the invocation. The meeting was closed by benediction by Rev. H. C. Mullen and the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" by the audience.

Evangelist Brown completes his two-weeks' evangelistic campaign in Monrovia this week. He invited Glendale friends to visit the Monrovia tabernacle any night before the close of the campaign there.

ATWATER RESIDENTS TO SEE NEW SCHOOL

Improvement Association Members Vote To Sidestep Light Issue; Back Requests for New Buildings

Out of the frying-pan into the fire might be the label placed on action taken by the Atwater Improvement association last night when that body voted to withdraw from further participation in the fight for ornamental lights on streets of the district, and, as the light controversy gurgled and sank for the last time, voted to actively support the immediate purchase of a school site and erection of a school somewhere between Glendale and Los Feliz boulevards.

Street lights and a new school have been burning issues in the Atwater district. The action of last night bars from further discussion by the association the matter of lights, their kind, relative merits, or when or where they shall be installed. The specific action, voted almost unanimously by the members, calls for withdrawal of a request made to the City Council that that body hold up action on lighting petitions already signed, in order that changes can be made in the kind of light specified. The resolution, incidentally, rescinds the association's action endorsing concrete standards.

As a result of another resolution, the secretary of the association forwarded to the board of education today a communication advocating not only the immediate commencement of work on the proposed addition at the Atwater Avenue school, but likewise immediate steps looking to the purchase of lands and the erection of a new school north of Glendale boulevard. This resolution gives the association's stamp of approval to requests for the new school already made by residents of the section. Rev. J. W. Utter, pastor of the Neighborhood Christian church where the meeting last night was held, made a stirring plea for the new school, declaring that if no place else was available he and his parishioners stood ready to donate the rear of their church property for a temporary school structure.

Candidates Address Crowd

Council Candidates E. E. Lampton and Charles W. Randall, the former Atwater Park's favorite son, the latter ex-United States congressman, were speakers at the Improvement association meeting last night. Both pledged themselves to municipal ownership of public utilities, the Boulder Dam project, administrations of economy and a progressive program, if elected. Both made good impressions on the audience of 350 persons that jammed the Neighborhood church auditorium to the bulging point.

Change Meeting Place

Official notice that the Atwater Park Baptist church will not be available for meetings of the Improvement association in the future, was given in a communication read by Secretary Paul E. Lipscomb last night. The communication bore the signature of F. R. Anderson, member of the church board. It stated that a growing feeling among parishioners that the church edifice should not be used for political or secular purposes had culminated in a decision of the board to discontinue all such meetings. President Arthur M. Gilman announced that the next association session would take place at the Neighborhood church, Monday night, April 13.

Gilman To Resign

"You will elect officers of this association at the meeting on May 2," President Gilman told the assemblage last night, "and at that time you will be confronted with the task of finding a new president. I will be unable longer to serve in that capacity. I am giving this fair warning so that you will be looking about for the right man to guide the destinies of the organization during the coming year."

It is understood that a number of the other officers and executive board members plan to tender their resignation at the time of the election.

MILADY'S BATHING SUIT DROPS FRILL

Simple One-Piece Effect On Order Of Male Wear Is Accepted

By AILEEN LaMONT
By Special Leased Wire to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 30.—The bathing suit does not figure in Florida and it will not be a dominant factor in costume on the northern figures so far as fashion is concerned. Women who came south for the winter with half a dozen bathing costumes, have abandoned the spectacular numbers of their salt water outfits. The best dressed women here are appearing on the beach in simple one-piece woolen, silk or silk and woolen suits, sober of color and almost free of decoration.

Some of the younger set have gone over entirely to the men's style costume, consisting of a white or blue jersey and short trunks of blue flannels supported by a white web belt. At Palm Beach the one-piece suit is prohibited, but the swimmers have simply added a taffeta, silk or satin tunic which goes on the one-piece suit to meet this requirement. These also are of the more sober colors, the only relief being in the belts and in godets of brightly colored silks which adorn the short skirts and open only when the wearer is in motion.

Bathing Shoes

Bathing shoes are of rubber and match the dark hues of the bathing dresses. They are as light and simple as possible and serve a purely utilitarian purpose, that of getting the wearer across the rough spots of the beach. Once the bather seeks the water, they are discarded. About the only decorations noted on the bathing costumes consist of bows of bright colored water proofed ribbon tied above the elbow of the left arm. The hues of the rainbow, however, may be allowed to run riot when it comes to selecting a bathing cape. These frequently are of terry cloth and brightly decorated with great splotches of red, yellow and blue.

The hats now being worn on the Florida east coast are merely a concession to the sun. They are neither small, of the close sport type, nor wide and floppy according to the cape line demands. The brims are about two and a half inches wide and the headgear is neither smart nor becoming. It merely shades the face from the sun and there is little likelihood that this vogue will be adopted in the milder northern climate the coming spring.

HIGH RACIAL UNIFORMITY IN SCHOOL

Records Show 98 Per Cent of Students Are White In Elementary District

Glendale city schools rank unusually high among cities throughout the country in point of racial uniformity, according to the Educational Research Bulletin just issued by the research committee of Glendale schools, in co-operation with the educational service bureau of Teachers' College, University of California, southern branch.

This bulletin is issued by Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale city schools; J. Harold Williams, Ph. D., research director, and the following editorial committee, composed of teachers of the city schools, Carrie M. Noble, Wilson school; Emma Saxton, Magnolia school, and Norman R. Whytock, Glendale Intermediate school.

Percentage Small

It is interesting to note that while many California cities are struggling with their foreign pupils, the elementary school enrollment of Glendale is characterized by a uniquely homogeneous racial group of children. The number of white pupils is found to be slightly less than 98 per cent of the entire school population as compared to slightly more than 2 per cent for all other races.

This number of the bulletin is full of interesting data and charts on educational matters. Some of the subjects presented are "Mechanical Aptitude Tests Administered," "Research Wins Favor at Cincinnati," "Mental Quality of Pupils Estimated by Teachers," "Racial Distribution by Grades," "Inferior Conduct Indicates Potential Delinquency," "Estimates of Intelligence by Schools," "Text on Graphic Methods," and "Estimate of Conduct by Schools."

CROWDS HEAR GLENDALE'S PROGRAM

Long Beach Auditorium Is Crowded To Hear Music Club Bill

More than 3,500 persons crowded the municipal auditorium and 500 more were turned away in Long Beach last night when the Glendale Choral club and the Glendale Municipal Symphony orchestra presented a program of musical numbers which received enthusiastic responses from the entire audience. The program was also broadcast over Radio KFON and a large number of fans in Long Beach and surrounding communities enjoyed the Glendale boosting program in this manner.

Glendale's delegation, numbering 125, made the trip in two special Pacific Electric cars and in private automobiles, arriving in the beach city just before the program. The musicians were introduced by R. Ernest Tucker, Glendale superintendent of recreation. Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, president of the Glendale Choral club, also made a few remarks, and greetings from Mayor Spencer Robinson, who was prevented from making the trip by illness, were expressed by George J. Lyons president of Glendale Community Service. The program was opened by Mrs. C. C. Cutchshaw, superintendent of Long Beach Community Service, and Mr. Beck, of the Long Beach city council.

Musical Numbers

The orchestra offered the opening musical numbers, a group of three numbers from the "Henry VIII Dances" (German), followed by a group of contralto solos by Mrs. Viva Lee Weidman, of the Choral club. A. Lowinsky, concertmeister of the orchestra, rendered three beautiful violin numbers and the Choral Club and Orchestra gave "'Tis Thy Wedding Morning," from "The Rose Maiden" (Cowan). The program closed with three numbers from the "Sylvia" Ballet (Delibes) by the Orchestra. Orchestra and Choral Club numbers were directed by J. Arthur Myers.

Following the program the Glendale visitors were entertained in the clubrooms maintained for the servicemen by the Long Beach Community Service and refreshments were served.

BEAUTY CULTURE TO BE FEATURED

Surprise Is Promised For Maids And Matrons At Pendroy's Store

Featuring beauty culture, a surprise event is in store for Glendale maids and matrons this week at the Pendroy store, South Brand boulevard at Harvard street. The surprise is to be a part of the showing of spring fashions, now attracting patrons to this popular fashion center. The exact nature of the event is to be announced during the next two days in the display advertising and news columns of The Glendale Evening News.

Hints of what it's all about come in the following cryptic announcement:

"Nature is deficient in producing beautiful women! Nature makes them beautiful so far as the contour of the features is concerned, but there she stops. Milady, however, makes up the difference. She does, all right, but at the fearful cost of $72,540,904 a year. That, according to statistics, is the enormous sum the women of America spend annually for cosmetics, to improve on a work nature should have finished. The statistician in this case is the Bureau of Vital Statistics, attached to the Department of Commerce, of which Herbert Hoover is head.

'Nature Flopped'

"Here, then, we have an instance where nature, the old reliable; nature, the beauty-maker, has flopped on the job. Now then, let us see just what this failure on the part of nature to complete her work of beautifying the American woman means to each woman in terms of dollars and cents. In cold harsh figures, the failure of nature costs each woman in this country alone $4.25 per year.

"To these facts, Max Factor, scientific cosmetician of Southern California, and world-wide authority on cosmetics and beauty preparations, who has given women of America 'The Supreme Brand' of cosmetics, adds this: 'Women are beautiful. Nature makes them so, but nature requires help. The rose will wither unless it is well cared for. So a woman's skin will wrinkle, freckles will come to mar it unless nature is helped along. Cosmetics are the aid of nature. They preserve beauty. They beautify, too. But the real help is as a preserver.'"

Mothers of sophomore pupils at Glendale High school, meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. John Robert White, jr., 347 North Orange street, were unanimous in the opinion that social life for young people of high school age should be furnished in the homes. To this end they formulated tentative plans for sponsoring informal social affairs next year for high school boys and girls. R. Ernest Tucker of Community Service, spoke to the mothers. He stated that while Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and similar organizations offered interesting activities for boys and girls from 10 to 14 years of age, Community Service offered them no special social life after those ages. MARCH THIRTY 1925

Mr. A. T. Cowan,
Publisher Glendale Evening News,
Glendale, California.

My dear Mr. Cowan—The generous response accorded our double-page advertisement published exclusively in The Glendale Evening News Friday, March 27, has been so phenomenal that we thought you might be interested in knowing something about it.

The advertisement was an announcement of the closing out of our entire stock in Glendale. Long before 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the time scheduled for the opening of our doors, there were great throngs of people clamoring for admittance.

In fact, the crowds were so great that only a part of them could be admitted, and when these were served the doors were again opened until the store was filled to capacity. This procedure continued throughout the day. Another unusual occurrence was the fact that we had to close for an hour and a half at noon to permit rearrangement of stock.

Hence it is that we are convinced more than ever of the wonderful pulling power of The Glendale Evening News. IT'S RESULTS THAT COUNT.

Very truly yours,
FISHER'S VARIETY STORE, Inc.

There I have read reports of the good effects of prohibition and the increasing enforcement of the Volstead law, which have kept me calm and certain of the triumph of good, when all about me was evil, crying 'failure.'

"I sincerely hope that soon the metropolitan dailies will begin to support this good law. As a subscriber for The News since coming to Glendale, about four years, I thank you."

STICKERS POINT TO PROSPERITY

Western Auto Supply Co. Has Novel Way to Offset Hard-Times Idea

In order to jar the general public loose from the mental complex that is leading to the belief that times are hard, that the country is on the verge of depression, and to awaken people to the opportunities that are promised for the present and near future, the Western Auto Supply Co., accessory dealers in nine states of the west, have initiated a windshield sticker campaign hailing "1925, Prosperity Year."

"General indications point toward a healthy, prosperous year. This wave of prosperity has already started in the east and is gradually moving westward," H. Press, advertising manager of the accessory company, said in announcing the "prosperity campaign."

Minor Setbacks

"Because of the few minor setbacks which we in the west have had in 1924, the buying public of this section of the country have permitted themselves to lapse into a pessimistic state of mind. Adverse trivial conditions loom up like mountains. While in this frame of mind, the buying public is blind to the favorable indications which appear upon the business horizon.

"It is our contention that while in this mental state, the general public will lose sight of the opportunities which will present themselves in the very near future. The buying public will not appreciate the coming of good times, because they will not be prepared for them and will not be ready to make the most of the favorable conditions which are on our threshold."

Prosperity stickers may be had at the Western Auto Supply Co., 205 South Brand boulevard.

FASTER TRAIN SUGGESTION TAKEN UP

Glendale's Move To Increase Cross-Country Speed Gets L. A. Backing

Glendale's move for more rapid train schedules between Chicago and the Pacific coast has struck a sympathetic response. A. G. Arnoll, secretary-manager of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, announced today that the Los Angeles chamber will immediately take up the fight for rapid transportation and will conduct a systematic survey to determine where and to what extent present running-time can be cut. In making the announcement, Secretary Arnoll emphasized the fact that rapid New York and middle-west train service to Florida is one of the main contributing factors to that state's lure to tourists. Southern California must have equally good service over the railroads to remain in competition with Florida, he declared.

Speed War Feared

Present fast running-time of sixty-eight hours to Chicago can be bettered by eight to ten hours, is the belief of investigators, it was said. Only a "gentlemen's agreement" between the three leading rail lines into Southern California prevents these lines from lopping many hours off their present schedules.

Without the agreement, a dangerous speed war would result, railroad officials maintain. Average speeds of from twenty-nine to thirty-two miles per hour on some of the fastest trains can easily be bettered without jeopardizing the safety of patrons and pedestrians, however, it was pointed out.

Mr. Arnoll said that although railroad officials would have nothing to say in regard to the proposed speeding up, he was inclined to believe a saving of from five to eight hours can easily be effected and that at the proper time the railroads will be the first to endorse the faster schedules.

As an added feature of the better transportation campaign it is hoped to have cars, and, later, full trains, dispatched through from Atlantic seaboard cities without change at Chicago or other points, Secretary Arnoll said.

Radium Water

has amazing health values. Drink it FREE for 10 days

Gallup, New Mexico, Nov. 22, 1924.
I use the jar in my own family and was surprised at the quick action as well as the wonderful results I have gotten in my chronic constipation.
H. G. WILLSON, M. D.

Ford Agency,
Cody, Wyoming.
My family drinks the water from this jar and we need no other regulator.
H. W. THURSTON.

Sardis, B. C., August 15, 1924.
It is with great pleasure, and also with a feeling of gratitude that I try in a few words to tell you what Radium Water has done for me.
For a number of years I have been a great sufferer from ulcers of the duodenum and stomach along with other complications, which seemed to defy the best medical science, until I gave up all hope of ever being well again. My last attack which last about three months was terrible. It was almost impossible to bear the pain. A friend told me about the Radium Water and of the great work it was doing. I grasped at it as a last ray of hope and to the great surprise of all, the Radium Water worked like a charm, and it is a wonder to all. In twenty-four hours after taking my first glass of water the pain stopped and it is now nearly three months since I have had any pain at all. Now I can eat anything in reason without any trouble, my nerves are normal, and I sleep all night through and in the morning I am fresh and full of pep. I gained five pounds in weight in about a week, and today I am alive and enjoying every minute of the day. Yours in all good faith,
DR. W. M. CARTER.

Our friends—those who have tried radium water—are writing our best advertisements. They become tremendously enthusiastic.
If it brings better health to them, it may mean the same to you. We believe that it will.
But we want you to be the judge. So we invite you to try it FREE for ten days.

Proved Facts

The value of radium water has long been recognized by medical and scientific authorities.
Thousands go each year for treatment to Hot Springs, Arkansas, and other famous health springs. The results are almost miraculous in many cases.
And the results come from radium water. For aside from radio-activity in the water, there is little if anything in it which you do not have in the water you drink.
But radio-activity can not be stored in water. It escapes.

Can Be Returned

Fortunately a few years ago, a way was discovered to return this invaluable element to water. The Radium Ore Revigator provides the method, without changing the taste of the water.
But we want you to see for yourself what radium water means to you in health. Note the results. Try for ten days at our cost and without obligation to you.
Several Revigators have been installed locally. Visit them to drink the water. Or take a bottle and fill it daily for drinking at home. Do this today.

ELECT BIG MEN

When many of us, adopted Californians, lived in cities and towns in the east and middle west we did not have to think ahead very far in planning for our private business or for municipal improvements. What sufficed for today would be sufficient for tomorrow. Our officials could be myopic as far as civic problems were concerned and still do very well. Growth in population was not one of the things for which we had to plan or with which we had to deal very often.

But it is different in California. Here we are very much like the parents of the rapidly growing boy who find it difficult to keep him properly clothed. Trousers and sleeves must be lengthened frequently or garments discarded for larger ones, or the boy becomes the object of ridicule because he looks "as if he had been picked too soon." Our parents used to get around this problem by buying us clothes two or three sizes too large for us, then they could take a breathing spell while we grew into them.

The "city fathers" of a rapidly growing community like Glendale must resort to the same tactics if they keep up with our growth properly. What fits us today will be outgrown tomorrow. We, as a city, cannot plan for this year alone. We must look forward five, ten, twenty years. Our worst enemies are forced to admit that there is no limit beyond which Southern California cannot go in the next decade or two.

Glendale is large for her age, but we can't stop growing now. We have forged ahead of cities that were far in advance of us ten years ago, and there is no reason why we should not maintain the lead we now have.

Glendale cannot build for today alone. Our city officials must be men and women who can see five and ten years ahead and who will shape our municipal policies with an eye on the future. Little men will not do for Glendale. We must have people with a vision of Glendale's possibilities. Remember this, voters.

LATIN TEMPERAMENT

Latin peoples are not famed for self-restraint, neither are Latin nations, and when President Coolidge undertook to arbitrate in an argument between Chile and Peru he demonstrated his courage.

When the president gave the decision to Chile, the Peruvians, who had asked him to settle their differences with their neighbors, accused him of "favoring the guilty party." Now, it is said, they are tearing down coats of arms over American consulates in Peru, holding public meetings to invent new terms of epithet to hurl at the American chief, sending telegrams of protest to the American state department, passing denunciatory resolutions in their Congress and burning effigies of the American president.

Someone explains the difference between the stability of our North American republic and the changeable character and unsettled condition of many republics in Central and South America as being due to the difference in temperament of the people. We Anglo-Saxons, or Nordics, accept the will of the majority or the decision of an arbiter and drop the matter—except when the umpire rules against the home team. The campaign preceding an election may be characterized by the most intense bitterness on both sides. But when the election is over the will of the majority is known and all trace of acrimony vanishes. We help to perpetuate the republic by accepting the result.

In Latin countries the minority does not always accept the will of the majority. If the result of an election is not pleasing, a revolution may follow.

Peru was a party to the invitation to President Coolidge to arbitrate in this international argument. Refusal to abide by his decision seems childish to us. But perhaps we should be charitable and lay it to racial temperament.

GARRULOUS WOMEN

Woman has always had the name of demanding the last word in any conversation, and it was predicted that when she got into politics she would turn our legislative bodies into "gabfests." But it has been proved that the talkative sex has been unjustly accused. Women elected to Congress and to the state legislatures have had very little to say.

Miss Jeanette Rankin of Montana, the first woman elected to Congress, was very quiet. In fact, she was criticised for not making herself heard in Congress. Miss Alice Roberts of Oklahoma had very little to say and she did not particularly enjoy the loquacity of the male members of Congress. Mrs. Mae Nolan of California, elected to complete the term of her deceased husband, spent two years in Congress without making a speech. This is an unusual record, and Mrs. Nolan's only claim to distinction as a congresswoman. Mrs. Julius Kahn, also of California, who will complete her late husband's term, says she is going to use common sense as a congresswoman, and those who know her say it may be safely assumed that she will talk when she has something to say, and only then. Mrs. Norton of New Jersey, who will sit in the next Congress, is yet to be heard from.

Either all women are very quiet, or the garrulous ones have not yet found their way into politics.

OUR EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

The recent statement of Dr. James A. Blaisdell of Pomona college to the effect that not more than one-fourth of the students who apply for admission to that institution can be accommodated brings up the question as to whether young men and women who really desire a college education are denied it because the schools cannot accommodate them all. It is said that Stanford rejects hundreds of applicants every year because of lack of accommodations, but, on the theory that they do not grade up to the high standards of admissions required there. Both at the University of California and the University of Southern California the entering classes tax the educational facilities to the limit, although these schools may not actually turn away any applicants.

California's population has increased by 1,000,000 in the last five years. This means there are many additional thousands of children in the public schools as well as new students in the colleges and universities.

We pride ourselves upon our educational facilities. It would be a pity if any young person desirous of a college education should be denied the opportunity to acquire it. The Southern Branch of the University of California, soon to be built, will take care of some who may be turned away from other schools.

THE POT CALLS THE KETTLE BLACK!

Friend Dog

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A story has been published somewhere about a boy who ran away from home and gave as his excuse that "there was not even a dog, and the ax always was by the woodpile."

This boy who was called unruly was placed on a farm where there were hens and chickens, dog, horses and cows, and he became satisfied and happy.

What he needed was the companionship of dependent creatures.

The dog is the one animal that keeps us from being lonely in this universe. We are strangers to all others and they all have a certain fear of us.

Maeterlink says that the dog is the only animal that really loves man.

This appeal of love, especially when it is unspoken and instinctive, calls out all the best that is in us. The dog usually appeals to the best that is in man. Very many persons who seem to be of no account in the world have a dog that loves them. This animal sees in them lovable qualities that no human being can see.

It is said of a dog that he never tells tales, answers back, or scolds. He is also ready for play and as a rule he is affectionate.

Children naturally take to dogs. They find an element of companionship in them that is lacking in people.

Every boy wants to be the owner of a dog. For if he is recognized as its owner he will be careful to give it food and water, even more careful than of his own meals.

The reason why any boy neglects his dog is that he thinks "somebody will feed it," that the responsibility is not up to him.

Of all the animals that are glad to show their affection to their owners, dogs lead the list. It is as though this one member of the animal creation was looking up through the veil that separates mankind from the rest of creation, lookin with longing and affection.

We have often wondered how the first dog was discovered, who was the first man that found out about him. In some way the dog showed his affection for his master. For some reason he is endowed with an instinctive love of the human being. He will cling to that human being through thick and thin. It makes no difference if he is poor or rich. In fact often the poorer he is the closer the dog comes to him.

The dog looks up to his master as a man looks up to God, He gives him unqualified, unstinted devotion. He is ready at any time to sacrifice his comfort and even lay down his life for the man to whom he is attached.

Affection is so rare in this world, and unshaken loyalty is so hard to find, that it is a pleasure to discover it in the dog. And men are justified in seeking the companionship of this animal when they have turned away even from the companionship of their fellows.

When a boy is discouraged or troubled or lonesome, and boys often are, there is a quality of silent sympathy that he gets from his dog companion that he can receive nowhere else. It is a sympathy he understands and appreciates.

If there is danger in keeping a dog, it should be remembered that there is danger in everything, and the advantages far outnumber the dangers in this case.

Horoscope

Saturn dominates this day in benefic aspect, according to astrology. Early in the morning the Sun is strongly adverse.

He who seeks preferment or political appointment under this planetary government will learn what it is to be an April fool.

Under the rule of the stars today egotism may be strongly accented and arrogance may prevail where power centers.

It is prophesied that new and surprising events will affect the point of view of government officials, especially those in highest places.

Saturn gives fair promise for prosperity in industry and especially in many trades.

There is a good sign for agriculture and fine prospect of big harvests.

It will be recalled that unusual weather conditions were prognosticated at the beginning of the year and the summer is likely to be marked by heavy storms in many parts of the country.

Farmers should prosper through business methods as well as through the bounty of nature.

This may be rather a cold month with much rain in this first week, but it will be good for growing things.

British shipping and foreign trade is subject to the best direction of the stars; there will be many American tourists in London early this season.

There is a promise of much activity for lawyers who may have many cases involving big business.

Publishers are to be busy in the next few months and they should profit from the sale of certain scientfic works.

Persons whose birthdate it is should pay close attention to business in the coming year as they may be liable to heavy losses.

Children born on this day have the best augury of good fortune. These subjects of Aries may be pleasure-loving but able to win highest success through ideas and clever enterprise.

Today's Poem

AH, HOW SWEET

(From "Tyrannic Love.")

Ah, how sweet it is to love!
Ah, how gay is young desire!
And what pleasing pain we prove
When we first approach love's fire!
Pains of love be sweeter far
Than all other pleasures are.

Sighs which are from lovers blown
Do but gently heave the heart:
E'en the tears they shed alone
Cure, like trickling balm, their smart,
Lovers, when they lose their breath,
Bleed away in easy death.

Love and Time with reverence
Treat them like a parting friend,
Nor the golden gifts refuse
Which in youth sincere they send:
For each year their price is more,
And they less simple than before

Love, like spring-tides full and high,
Swells in every youthful vein;
But each tide does less supply,
Till they quite shrink in again.
If a flow in age appear,
'Tis but rain, and runs not clear.
—John Dryden.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASE

SACRAMENTO, March 31.—Concealment of a case of communicable disease, either by the family of the patient, his physician or nurse, is a crime of first order, it was stated by Dr. Walter M. Dickie, executive secretary of the state board of health in a bulletin.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

Look around you, and you will see that the greatest restrainer of the anti-social tendencies of men is fear, not of law, but of the opinion of their fellows.

Observe that the conventions of honor bind men who break legal, and moral, and religious bonds; and, while people endure the extremity of physical pain rather than part with life shame drives the weakest to suicide.

Every forward step of social progress brings men into closer relations with their fellows, and increases the importance of the pleasures and pains derived from sympathy.

Huxley observed that we judge the acts of others by our own sympathies, and we judge our own acts by the sympathies of others, every day and all day long, from childhood upwards, until associations, as indissoluble as those of language, are formed between certain acts and feelings of approbation and disapprobation.

The result is, Huxley points out, "It becomes impossible to imagine some acts without disapprobation, or others without approbation of the actor, whether he be one's self or anyone else. We come to think in the acquired dialect of morals."

Thus an artificial personality, the "man within," is built up beside the natural personality. He is the watchman of society, charged to restrain the anti-social tendencies of the natural man within the limits required by social welfare.

Huxley terms this evolution of the feelings out of which the primitive bonds of human society are so largely forged, into the organized and personified sympathy we call conscience, the ethical process.

"So far as it tends to make any human society more efficient in the struggle for existence with the state of nature, or other societies, it works in harmonious contrast with the cosmic process. But it is none the less true that since law and morals are restraints upon the struggle for existence between men in society, the ethical process is in opposition to the principle of the cosmic process, and tends to the suppression of the qualities best fitted for success in that struggle."

Timely Views

It is through its policy of avoiding entangling alliances that the United States has been able to take a leading role in the settlement of international controversies, said Congressman Theodore E. Burton of Ohio in an address in Cleveland.

Tracing the government's diplomatic history, Burton pointed out that "secret treaties by the United States have been assiduously avoided."

"John Adams' report made prior to the Declaration of Independence, urging the avoidance of entangling alliances has been maintained as our policy," he said.

"Later the Monroe doctrine was promulgated for our own protection against the extension of European occupancy on this continent and establishing here monarchies under foreign influences.

"The doctrine of expatriation," he said, "is distinctively an American idea under which a citizen leaving his native country and locating in another political jurisdiction becomes, after naturalization, a citizen of the country to which he removes and is exempt from obligations to his native land.

"Another fundamental principle from the beginning has been the demand for the equal and undisturbed use of navigable waterways. In the application of this principle the Panama canal has been opened to the merchant ships of all nations upon terms of equality.

"Peace has been our aim, though the even tenor of an enlightened popular opinion has sometimes been disturbed by outbursts of jingoism. To an unusual extent controversies with other nations have been settled by arbitration. We have taken a leading part in the settlement of international controversies by arbitration and the permanent court of international justice is in fact an American conception.

"When foreign policies of the nations are compared it may be confidently asserted that no country has maintained a more liberal foreign policy, or has manifested a greater degree of altruism and regard for the future welfare of humanity and for progress than our own United States.

"Among the distinctive features or policies which have been pursued are expansion, joined with the desire to avoid the taking into the body politic of people that are not congenial to our civilization. Expansion has been accomplished by diplomacy more than by war. It was inevitable that the borders of the United States should extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

"Of the neutrality principle first enunciated by Washington in 1793, an English writer on international law has said: 'The policy of the United States in 1793 constitutes an epoch in the development of the usages of neutrality. In the main it is identical with the standards of conduct that are now adopted by the community of nations'."

CANDIDATES TALK AT CLUB MEETING

Davis and Kimlin Address Advancement Association At Noon Luncheon

Councilmen Sam Davis and C. E. Kimlin addressed members of Glendale Advancement association today noon in behalf of their candidacies for re-election. Councilman Kimlin urged that some present members of the council be held over at the coming election pointing out the disadvantage of an entirely new board. He said he was vitally interested in remaining on the council to help in the completion of the Glendale sewer job. Mr. Kimlin pledged a well-managed business administration, calling particular attention to the budget system now used by the city. He urged that all citizens take an interest in making up the city budget.

Councilman Davis said there are two things he will do if re-elected, sponsor the installation of comfort stations in the down-town districts and continue his fight for standardized ornamental light poles to be manufactured by the city. He scored "high pressure light pole salesmen who go in and get neighbors fighting among themselves."

Members of the Advancement association were assured that no immediate action was contemplated in regard to the changing of the city zoning ordinance. Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce told the association of efforts of the chamber industrial committee to determine on the advisability of seeking a change in the zones as now established. J. F. McClish reported on the proposed rezoning also. President C. W. Ingledue presided at the meeting, held at the Harriett Mae tea room.

Shepherd Has Stormy Day At Bail Hearing

..her boy has lied, was used by the defense here today as its crowning effort to bring a renunciatiou of the confession and accusations which have hung an indictment for murder about the neck of William D. Shepherd.

From her home at Waukegan, Ills., spurred only by her desire to "right a wrong" came Mrs. Anna Koch today to sit in the musty old court room where so many battles for life and death have been fought and look into the eyes of her son, Earl P. Clark, when he is called to repeat his charges against Shepherd and Dr. Charles C. Faiman, Shepherd's co-defendant.

"He has lied," Mrs. Koch said, before entering the courtroom. "But he couldn't lie to me."

Prominent Facts

Four points in Mrs. Koch's statement that stood out most prominent were: That Faiman, following his damning confession, had characterized the entire thing a mass of falsehoods; that directly following his statement, on seeing Shepherd he told Clark he never before had seen the man; that Faiman's school never had had any live germ cultures such as Faiman in his confession said he had given Shepherd to innoculate Willion Nelson McClintock, his foster son, and that Clark was entirely responsible for the confession, which was made after a fistic encounter beween Clark and Faiman, while they were alone in the state attorney's office.

ASSEMBLY BEATS CHURCH MEASURE

After Bitter Fight, Bill To Teach Religion Out Of School Killed

SACRAMENTO, March 31.—With the rejection of the Miller religious education bill in the Assembly, one of the bitterest fights of the present legislative session is at an end.

Defeat of the bill, which would have permitted children to be released from the public schools certain periods each week for religious instruction, came after a day of heated debate, the opposition mustering forty-one votes against thirty-three for the measure.

"Un-American, vicious and sectarian," were among the charges hurled at the bill by its opponents, led by Assemblyman S. V. Wright.

Leading the fight for the measure, Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller, author of the bill, declared that "it is impossible for anyone to secure a complete education without a full knowledge of the Bible and the principles it teaches."

STOCKHOLDERS IN RAIL MERGER DEAL

Chesapeake & Ohio, Nickel Plate Consolidation Is Approved, Belief

RICHMOND, Va., March 31.—The merger of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway into the Nickel Plate system, being promoted by the Van Sweringen brothers at Cleveland, apparently has been approved, it was announced here today after an all-night count of the ballots cast yesterday.

Formal announcement of the result is being held up because of uncertainty as to whether a two-thirds of the total vote cast or two-thirds of the total outstanding shares are necessary to approve the merger.

Field Marshal French Spends Restful Night

LONDON, March 31.—The Earl of Ypres, Field Marshal French, spent a better night, according to the official bulletin issued today. His general condition was improved, his physicians said.

COUNCIL FAVORS RIVER DAM PLAN

Asks Legislators To Act On Project; Relief In Drainage Is Sought

said that residents had complained at times of excessive noise. He explained that the exhausts on the engines had been tampered with at times, but that they have always been repaired immediately by the company. A copy of the petition and a communication explaining the action of the City Council will be sent the Chamber of Commerce and the factory management.

Demands Relief

An "intolerable situation" exists at Broadway and Central avenue because of lack of proper facilities to handle the accumulation of water during rain storms, the council was told by O. M. Newby, Central avenue realtor and property owner.

During the last two rainfalls water has accumulated at the intersection and damage was done by an overflow into stores along Central, he said. "We are getting the bulk of water flowing east on Wilson avenue and a lot of it coming down Broadway," he declared. "We are entitled to relief from this intolerable situation."

City Engineer J. F. Johannsen was instructed by Mayor Robinson and council to begin plans immediately to rebuild a portion of the intersection to construct a shallow swale across Central avenue and to enlarge the intake. Plans for the work will be submitted at the next meeting of the council. In the meantime, according to Newby, sandbags will be necessary to prevent further loss to merchandise and damage to store buildings.

Petition of property owners to change the zoning ordinance to permit commercial industries in the territory in the vicinity of Verdugo road and Loomis was referred to the City Planning commission. A petition to pave Walnut drive from Chevy Chase drive to the city limits was referred to the city attorney and city engineer for recommendation. A part of Walnut drive is in county territory, Johannsen told the council.

Not Contemplated

A communication from Frank England, 120 West Burchett street, protesting against the "proposed movement to widen and extend Burchett street" was tabled and Stone instructed to notify England that no such project has been laid before the council.

"It has been brought to my attention," England wrote, "that a movement has been started to widen and extend Burchett street and I hereby protest against any such unnecessary and uncalled for project. Burchett is forty feet wide from curb to curb, and there is no congestion of traffic at that point. We don't want heavy trucking at that place.

"My understanding is that the matter is being engineered by the same parties who tried to open up Patterson street two years ago and the proposition then was overwhelmingly defeated."

Glendale Avenue

Striking at the reported plans of the Santa Fe railroad to build a number of warehouses and siding tracks along Glendale avenue, a petition was received from a number of property owners urging the council to go on record as opposed to making any changes in the zoning ordinances covering the commercial, residence and industrial districts of Glendale avenue, Brand boulevard and Central avenue.

"We have no notice that such action is to be taken," said Mayor Robinson. "I understand that such a project has been talked of, but there has been no recommendation of any change in the zoning ordinance by the planning commission." The petition was filed without action, upon the recommendation of City Attorney Ray L. Morrow.

Councilmen C. E. Kimlin and S. A. Davis intimated today that they will oppose the acceptance of bids for construction of an ornamental lighting system along Howard street from Broadway to the wash. Four bids for the work were opened today, ranging from $9500 to $10,000 for the work. Bids for grading, paving and curbing of Howard street from Broadway to Lexington drive were also opened.

Seeks More Light

"I wonder if the property owners in the district realize how much an ornamental lighting system is going to cost them?" Kimlin said. "I want to have more information on it before I will vote in favor of awarding these bids."

Two bids for installation of water pipe along Palmer avenue were submitted. Frank C. Potterfield's bid was $6500, while the city of Glendale submitted a bid of $7800. The city submitted the only bid for installing water pipe on Verdugo canyon road for $27,900. A franchise for installing and maintaining gas mains was sold to the Southern California Gas Co. for $100. The company also pays a percentage on the amount of gas through the mains.

No protests were received on the bond issue for unpaid assessments on the Kenilworth avenue improvement, and the resolution was adopted.

OTITIS MEDIA (RUNNING EARS) No. 1

Nature has done a wonderful piece of work in the machine called man, but it seems occasionally that she slipped up a little bit in some of her arrangements—for instance, in the placing of the opening of the eustachian tube in the back of the nose and throat. The eustachian tube is a tiny passage through which air is conveyed to the middle ear to make the air pressure the same on the inside of the ear drum as it is on the outside, so the drum can vibrate to the sound waves.

Now it's all right for air to travel up this tube, and necessary, but its position is an open invitation to any inflammation of the nose and throat to take a little run up, too. And inflammations do that quite frequently—rather, the germs causing the original inflammation do that—and start new inflammations in the ears. In fact, most of the troubles of the ear are caused in this manner.

Today we want to begin to talk about one of the most common of ear diseases—Otitis Media; that is, the inflammation of the middle ear. "Running ear" expresses the clinical symptom of purulent Otitis Media. (There is a running of pus from the ear).

This inflammation in the majority of cases is an extension of an inflammation from the nose or throat, following colds or infectious fevers, especially scarlet fever, diphtheria and measles.

Otitis Media may be mild or severe, acute or chronic. If it is not very great, it may be stopped at the catarrhal stage and then will recede, or it may become chronic. All inflammations of the ears, if not treated, may produce deafness, ringing in the ears (tinnitus) and sometimes dizziness and other symptoms.

The acute and chronic suppurating types of inflammation of the middle ear are very common during childhood and are often neglected, through the impression that because it is so common, it is more or less normal. The result of this neglect may be deafness, in a greater or lesser degree, and impaired health.

When pus comes from the ear, unless it is due to a boil in the outer canal, it means that the inflamation has been so great in the middle ear that the ear drum has finally burst from the pressure. Nowadays we don't wait for this to happen because we know that there is danger that the pus may extend into the mastoid cells back of the ear, necessitating a serious operation for relief. Instead of this, when indications of pus are present, the ear drum is lanced. This lets the pus out and relieves the tension and pain. With proper treatment the discharge stops forming and the drum heals, usually without any deafness, or other bad after effects.

Lancing of the ear drum is a delicate and momentarily very painful operation and had best be done by an ear specialist, although children specialists may include this in their work, as so many children have to have it done.

Discharging ears are always serious and they may be dangerous to life. They must not be neglected.

A new treatment for Otitis Media has been evolved and chronic cases that had resisted all known treatment are now being cured.

This new treatment consists of irrigating the ear with peroxide of hydrogen diluted with one-half water; then certain new drugs and dyes are used which kill off all the bacteria which cause the inflammation. (See note).

Tomorrow we will continue this talk on Running Ears and I will tell you what to do for prevention and home treatment.

(NOTE: For the benefit of the physicians who have been too busy to read or have missed the article describing this new and effective treatment, I will state that it was in the American Journal of Children's Diseases, July, 1924, and is written by Dr. David T. Smith of Johns Hopkins.)

Mrs. M. McK.: "Please tell me what to do for scratches on a mahogany bureau. Also tell me how to remove stains from a brass bed."

Answer: You did not mention the color of your mahogany. For Brown Mahogany: Apply a little permanganate of potassium solution made as follows: Dissolve one teaspoonful of the permanganate crystals in one pint of warm water. Use a fine camel's hair brush to put this brown stain on the cracks. Then rub with any good furniture polish. For Red Mahogany: Dissolve a little Bismark brown aniline powder in alcohol and apply this to the cracks with a fine brush, then use a furniture polish. Or, if you prefer, go to an artists' supply store where they sell the little tubes of oil paint which artists buy to paint on canvas, and select the correct shade of brown or red to match your particular piece of mahogany. Paint the scratches with this (if too thick, thin slightly in a little benzine—but do not use the benzine near heat or flame). As to the brass bed, have you tried a good brass polish? Evidently your bed is not coated with lacquer, which keeps it from becoming stained and tarnished. When you have polished it brightly, apply a thin coat of lacquer, which can be bought already mixed at any first class paint store. If, however, the brass finish has worn off from too-frequent polishings, then the only thing that can be done is to send the bed to a brass foundry to be done over.

Mrs. H. L.: "Is there anything that can be done to restore color to a dark blue crepe de chine dress under the arms, where discoloration has been caused by perspiration? Also please tell me how to clean yellow window shades which have become soiled."

Answer: There is nothing that I know of to restore the color of blue crepe de chine under the conditions you mention. To Clean Holland Shades, lay them one at a time on a table and rub with a cheesecloth bag filled with heated cornmeal, finish by dusting with a soft cloth. Some housewives use powdered bathbrick applied with a slightly-moistened pad of old cloths.

R. M.: Massage your legs every night in addition to the exercises you are taking, and you will obtain results more quickly. There is no safe, quick way of reducing. It is possible that the yeast treatment which you suggest will be all necessary to clear your complexion, but after several weeks of it, if there is no improvement, you had better consult a doctor.

Blue Eyes: A red nose, that is also very oily, shows there is sluggishness in the digestive system. A condition like this is often cured by taking agar agar for a time; this cleanses the digestive tract without irritating it as purgatives are often apt to do.

H. N.: When the hands of a young person are shriveled and dry, it usually indicates a run down system, or that there is something wrong with the functioning of some of the organs. Local treatment will help somewhat, such as massaging with a nourishing oil, but the best way is to improve the health by correcting the real trouble.

Tincture of green soap is used sometimes as a shampoo for very oily hair.

Blue Bell: Creams that are made from fine vegetable oils will not cause a growth of hair; creams that cause this trouble are those made from heavy animal fat, which clog the pores and attract soil—a combination that encourages this abnormal tendency. When the skin feels drawn as yours after using water on it, a very little bit of oil or cream rubbed into it will relieve it. Such skins need a fine soap, preferably one made from olive oil such as the good qualities of castile soap, and even then, rinse several times.

Q. R. S.: The following exercise will help to rid yourself of the double chin:—Throw the head far back between the shoulders, and then go through a series of chewing motions until all the throat and chin muscles have been thoroughly exercised. You can also try massaging under the chin with the finger tips, using tiny rotary motions, working from the back out to the tip of the chin. Conclude either method with an ice rub to harden the skin and stimulate the circulation under it.

M. B. B.: A little girl of 13 years should have no need for cosmetics; if her skin is not attractive it shows that her health is in need of attention.

N. L. B.: The fault may be in your digestion or there may be a restriction in your circulation causing you to have a red nose at times. Tight bands or pressure from spectacles or eyeglasses will often cause the trouble, but whatever it is, it can be corrected very quickly once you have found it out.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. ## Army Places Stress On Care Of Teeth

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—Care of the teeth as one of the essentials in the preservation of good health and military fitness, long stressed by army medical authorities, is emphasized in orders from the war department.

Owing to the shortage of dentists, both military and civilian, in foreign possessions and other overseas localities where American troops are stationed, it is required that all persons in the military service immediately upon receipt of orders for foreign service proceed to an army dental officer for a dental survey and such treatment as may be necessary. Such persons also are advised to see that their dependents receive any necessary dental attention before proceeding overseas.

English Justice Raps Modern Divorce Suits

MANCHESTER, Eng., March 31.—"We do not sell wives these days with ropes around their necks."

Justice Shearman laid down this principle to a husband seeking damages from a co-respondent in a divorce case.

"There seems to be a modern notion," said the justice, "that people can come to the divorce court and obtain damages in every case. I strongly object. The co-respondent has relieved the petitioner of a bad wife. This is an absurd claim for damages. A man who brings a divorce for the purpose of getting happily married to another woman has no claim, as he suffered no damage."

Judge Finds New Cure For Dad's Rheumatiz

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—A new cure for rheumatism was discovered here by Judge Raymond McNeille, in domestic relations court recently, where Charles Humes was charged with being $506 in arrears on an order for support of his three children.

"I've got rheumatism, Your Honor, and I can't work," declared Humes.

"Well," said the judge, "I'll just give you two minutes to decide whether you want to go to the house of correction for ninety days or forget about your rheumatism and go to work."

"I'll go to work," Humes answered.

JUDGE UNDER FIRE

Endorses Miss Kern For City Treasurer

H. A. Harrison, 221 West Lomita, sent the following self-explanatory communication to The Glendale Evening News:

Editor The Evening News—I have noticed with some interest the candidacy of Miss Ruth Kern for the position of city treasurer, which position will be vacant with the approaching election, and wish to add a few words of commendation as to her ability and fitness to occupy this position under the city charter. Based upon her work and conduct during my employment as city controller, I would state that Miss Kern upon her employment as deputy treasurer, immediately displayed an accurate knowledge of routine accounting and cashier work and that at all times I found her work to be accurate and intelligently executed.

I believe from my knowledge of her ability and willingness to work combined with the knowledge of the requisite duties of the position gained in her four years of experience as deputy treasurer, I can unqualifiedly and freely endorse her for this responsible position of our municipal government.

Respectfully yours,
H. A. HARRISON.

DEATHS-FUNERALS

JOHN F. SWISHER

Funeral services for John F. Swisher, who died Sunday night, March 29, 1925, at his home, 731 West Milford street, were held at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking Co., 137 North Orange street. Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris, present pastor, and Dr. H. I. Rasmus, sr., former pastor of First Methodist church, officiated. Music was given by a quartet from the church, and church friends of Mr. Swisher served as pallbearers. Many beautiful spring flowers were sent by relatives and friends in expression of love and sympathy. Interment took place at Long Beach.

John F. Swisher, son of Isaac and Amanda Swisher, was born August 30, 1851, near Columbus, Ohio. He was one of a family of ten children, eight of whom lived to manhood and womanhood. His father was an ordained minister in the Methodist church, and his mother a devoted Christian. At the close of the Civil War the family moved to Missouri, where they resided on a farm in Davies county.

Mr. Swisher and Victoria Gammill were married September 20, 1877. They had four children, one son dying in infancy. In 1885 they moved to Hamilton, Mo., where Mr. Swisher engaged in business until September, 1899, when they moved to Cameron, Mo., because of the educational advantages offered by Missouri Wesleyan college. In February, 1912, Mr. Swisher retired from business and with his wife came to Long Beach to live. Mrs. Swisher's death occurred March 5, 1914.

Mr. Swisher was married December 2, 1915, to Florence B. Sheaben, a sister of his first wife. They resided in Long Beach until August, 1918, when they came to Glendale to reside.

Stricken Tuesday morning, March 17, Mr. Swisher never regained consciousness before his death Sunday. He was ready and glad to go as he had been in ill-health for a number of years. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Florence Swisher; two daughters, Mrs. Guy Hulsizer and Mrs. James O. Wallace; a son, Ira M. Swisher, and five grandchildren of Long Beach; and two sisters in Missouri. A friend of the family has said of Mr. Swisher, "His life was an open book, full of good deeds. Quiet and unassuming, his Christian character and kindly disposition influenced all with whom he came in contact. He has left a wonderful legacy to his children and grandchildren more precious than gold and silver."

ORPHEUM BILL IS HEADED BY LEWIS

High-Hatted King Of Jazz; Parisian Revue In Spotlight Place

Nobody sits on their hands at the Orpheum this week. Why? You "buy 'em early" and find out. Although he has keen competition for headline honors Ted Lewis stops the show even though this is the third and last week for the high hatted tragedian of jazz. Lewis gives all the patrons good measure with an entire group of new songs, and satisfies all the request hounds with several of his previous hits. Miss Bobbe Arnst enlivens the act with what she doesn't wear and brings down the house with her song "You Know How It Is."

Herbert Clifton proved to everybody that paralysis of the hands even to the most blase was a thing of the past. His travesty on a Spanish dancer was a "wow." To show his appreciation for the reception given him he gave a snappy curtain talk.

And then came the Sunkist comedian, Eddie Nelson, with his dancing, wise cracks, and niftie who proceed to stop the show for the third time. Although he played here just recently, Eddie bowled the customers over one right after the other.

Parisian Revue

A novelty which captivated the audience by its dancing, singing and unique scenes was Meyer Golden's Parisian Revue imported from Paris to make a tour of the Orpheum houses. The girls were easy to look at, while the dancing carried you away with lightness and grace with which it was executed.

Leon Vavara played the most serious music and then would turn out the meanest syncopation. He knows how to play and the audience showed their appreciation by calling him back several times. He made his appearance again in Doris Duncan's act in which she sings several songs that are indeed original. Doris has personality, pep and she is no slow singer by a long way.

Opening the show the Wheeler trio makes everybody so nervous that many thought one of them would be killed. Keeping the people parked in their seats during the last act is hard to do, but Lady Alice's pets turn the trick. It is most unusual to see cats and rats on the stage at the same time, but such is the case.

Outside of every act being a "knock-out" nothing out of the way happened at the Orpheum last night.

FILMIZED 'SWAN' AT THE GATEWAY

Famous Stage Hit On Silver Sheet, Showing Last Times Today

In one of the most thrilling scenes of Paramount's "The Swan," the camera turns for several minutes without any actors appearing on the screen. And, incidentally, Dimitri Buchowetzki demonstrates that he is as skillful directing shadows as he is handling flesh and blood.

During a famous duel scene between a court tutor and an army officer, the two principals are entirely out of the camera's range. Only their shadows can be seen on the wall at the end of the long glass gallery, a pantomime of swiftly moving swords and tense figures, circling cat-like for an advantageous thrust.

Menjou In It

Then suddenly the shadows disappear and Ricardo Cortez, the tutor, backs into the scene, closely pressed by his adversary.

Cortez is featured with Adolphe Menjou and Frances Howard in "The Swan" now showing the last times today at the Gateway Theatre. It's a royal romantic-comedy, adapted to the screen by Dimitri Buchowetzki from the stage hit by Ferenc Molnar.

Missed Goal

Emil Jannings, star of "The Last Laugh," at Glendale Theatre, never got uniform.

It was the lure of a sailor's uniform—a hope, by the way, that was never fulfilled—which caused a lad of fourteen, destined to become the greatest European actor, to run away from home and work before the mast. The lad was Emil Jannings.

Recently, just after his most heralded success, "The Last Laugh," a U. F. A. production which is being released in America by Universal and which is now showing at the Glendale theatre, was completed Jannings explained why the marine venture proved to be a sartorial failure insofar as flashy sailor uniforms were concerned.

Thought All Alike

"It was a tramp steamer," the star related, "and I didn't know the difference at the time I signed up. I was under the impression that all ships were alike, whether they flew the government's standard as a warship or carried something so prosaic as machinery or dairy products.

"When I stepped aboard the bos'n told me to get into my work clothes. I was startled. I asked for a sailor uniform, and when he realized that I had no other clothes except those on my back, he obtained a pair of well-washed, threadbare dungarees, made of khaki.

"I was the saddest young fellow in the world for a few hours, but the lurid tales which the old sea dogs told me made me quite forget that decks need uniforms for anything but parades, and we never paraded. If we weren't cleaning decks we were painting one or another of the ship's numerous parts, or loading and unloading cargo and supplies."

'MANNA' OPENS AT LOCAL PLAYHOUSE

Noted Stars Of Stage And Screen At Premiere On Monday Night

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff.

"It has brought tears to my eyes and made my heart beat in sympathy with my fellow man," was the tribute paid by Frederick Warde, dean of the American stage, last night to the dramatic artistry of Fred J. Butler, director, and the cast of Dobinson Players he has assembled for the presentation of Olga Printzlau's play "Manna" at the Tuesday Afternoon club playhouse.

Los Angeles has never offered a more brilliant, inspiring audience for a premiere than filled the auditorium of the Playhouse last night. Frederick Warde, William H. Crane and others who have won high honors on the American stage; directors, stars and many connected with the motion picture industry; and, most of all, a representative group of American drama lovers witnessed the play, and expressed by generous applause and wholehearted praise, commendation of what Mrs. Florence Dobinson is offering cities of the southland in her dramatic organization she has given to Glendale to claim as its own.

Even the Conductor of the Congregation of the Faithful left the Yellow Cat by the fireside and trudged down from the little Gray House in the Hollow, in the Green Verdugo Hills, to greet his friends in Glendale. It was a happy occasion for John Steven McGroarty. In his own words, he had the "happiness of witnessing the triumph of old friends."

Cast Enlarged

"I wonder if you people in Glendale know how much courage, how much faith and how much industry it takes to do what Mrs. Dobinson and her associates are doing for Glendale," was Mr. McGroarty's tribute.

The brilliancy of the audience found vivid reflection in the play itself. The direction of Mr. Butler has given most decided impetus to the artistic growth of the Dobinson Players, and the usual cast, augmented in this play to over thirty-five, have responded splendidly to their director in every dramatic phase Miss Printzlau has incorporated in her play.

Of course, Miss Doris Lloyd is the magnetic personality around which the talent of the cast radiates, but even with her London successes and recognized talent she does not outshine those who appear with her in "Manna." Miss Lloyd is seen as Kitty Schneider, a part in decided contrast to the character she portrayed in "The Ruined Lady." As Kitty Schneider she has a part, rich in emotional values, and one in which she uses her wealth of dramatic talent for creation of character.

Theme of Play

Faith is the theme of the play and its personification is found in the sordidness of a reconstruction hospital, in the character of Peter Linden played by Joseph McManus. Mr. McManus has sensed the spiritual element so dominant in the play, and although the major portion of his acting is limited to a wheel chair, he does exceptional work and sustains the dominant note of faith from the first to the last episode.

Sharing honors with Mr. McManus in the hospital episode are Edward Peil as "Nellie" O'Brien, a typical, hard-boiled buddy, whose character work is wonderfully convincing; Richard Ehlers, popular member of the Dobinson company, as "Slim;" Charles O'Malley as "Goofie" and James Worsley as Kelly.

Mary Isabelle Alpaugh and William H. Stephens are seen in excellent parts, entirely different than any they have portrayed. Both these players have responded in marked degree to Mr. Butler's direction, and in "Manna" they do some exceptional dramatic work in the episode in which they are featured.

Others in Cast

Honors also go to Ann Lockhart as Mrs. McGinnis; to Joe M. Cox for his character finesse as Papa Schneider; to Ethan Allen as the genial Michael O'Hara, who finds much human interest as he walks his beat; to Jerome Coliamore as the Man from the Book; to Thyra Ruhland as Miss Ruth, the Red Cross nurse; and to others appearing in the various episodes of the play, which many claim to be the best production yet given at the Playhouse.

Evidence of the high standard to which Mrs. Dobinson and Mr. Butler are holding every production of the Players, is seen in the hearty co-operation of the Salvation Army in the production of "Manna." In the episode of the street outside the hospital, a group of Salvationists, allowed to take part by permission of the district commander, hold a street meeting. The continued applause these church people received and the generous offerings made to them as the audience left the Playhouse bespoke the fine feeling existing toward the Salvation Army among all denominations and faiths.

Plan Social Hour

Added features of "Manna" are fine stage settings, the work of Joe Cox, L. Ruggles, A. Weatherbee, W. H. Mentzer and C. L. Wallace; and music by Gladys H. Lott, Hedwig F. Sharkey, Antoinette Fredericksen and Myranna Richards.

Another full house is to greet the players tonight, when the Tuesday Afternoon club is to have a "Family Night Party." Following the play there will be an informal social hour in the banquet hall.

Film Producer Admits Engagement To Lillian

SCHOOL SHORTAGE FACES WINDY CITY

Nearly 100,000 Children Are Without Accommodations For Education

By O. L. SCOTT

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

CHICAGO, March 31.—The startling fact that Chicago's growth is so rapid as to cut off nearly 100,000 children from facilities for obtaining a schooling, is coming to light here with a new emphasis.

Instead of pushing forward to overtake the tremendous seating shortage, which is denying thousands of children an education, investigation now discloses that the number of children continues to increase faster than provision is made to care for them.

Right now 80,160 youngsters who should be learning "reading, writing and 'rithmetic" are without school seats, compared with 79,619 at the beginning of the year. This in the face of a $16,000,000 annual construction program.

Even with their best effort, pushing the construction of facilities to the limit, school officials estimate that in five years 49,000 eligible pupils will be without seats. That is based on a normal increase in population, while the prospect is for an abnormal increase.

Wooden Barracks

Many of the children who are able to get into school have to be content with one story wooden barracks, of a kind that even the most remote country districts nowadays would be ashamed of. These ramshackle places, with inadequate ventilation and heating facilities are crowded.

A variety of plans for relieving the congestion and providing educational facilities for all children, have been advanced, from junior high schools to the platoon system of teaching.

It develops though that the main thing needed is money. Chicago is said to expend much less for education in proportion to its population than any other representative American city. In the past a fair proportion of the school money has gone into fat salaries for politicians—a situation now remedied.

Still the teachers through their organization claim that millions are lost to the schools through tax dodging, one of the most popular local sports among the big property holders.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—

It gives me genuine pleasure to add my commendation of Dr. Paul S. Traxler to that of the others who know him.

During the World War, while I was a Major of Infantry, in France, Dr. Traxler (then Lieutenant Traxler) was assigned to my Battalion as Surgeon; and for several months thereafter our association was most intimate. We were quartered in the same French villages—or what remained of them—and, accordingly, I had especial opportunity to study Dr. Traxler and appraise his character.

He was capable, careful and conscientious in the discharge of his difficult duties, and I came to admire him greatly for his unselfish labors and his upright and honorable character. Mentally alert, physically fit and temperamentally well poised and balanced; I can most cordially commend him as a man "you can tie to."

From my knowledge of him, gained during our close association in the devastated regions of France, I am convinced that his qualifications are such that those who see fit to place confidence in him will be rewarded by diligent attention to duty and faithful and conscientious service.

He proved true to his trust over there; what greater test could one desire?

Very truly yours,

"Do you remember the hatpin Miss Smith found stuck in the stuffing of the sofa in the library? Well, I was thinking about Miss Smith as I sat there just now waiting to see Mrs. Hurst, and the hatpin business came back to me. I don't know what made me begin feeling down in the sofa myself, but I did. I guess it was a hunch. The first thing I found was a fifty-cent piece. That sort of stimulated me; it was like digging for buried treasure. Next thing I dug up was a pair of eyeglasses. That wasn't so exciting—the cache seemed to be petering out. Then, deep down in the very bowels of that sofa I found—this."

"What it suggests is too horrible to believe," cried Graham. "A man's own daughter—"

"You haven't been playing detective long, Mr. Graham. Give you a few years and you wouldn't have many illusions left. You'd come to discover that there's nothing too horrible to believe, and yet—and that is what keeps a man going—nothing too good, either.

"It certainly is strong evidence," admitted Graham unwillingly.

"Yes," assented Flint. "Yes, it's strong. This is unquestionably the weapon which was used—right bore, and a single shot fired from it. Besides, it has Mr. Hurst's name on it. Yes, we've got the gun, and we've got motives enough and to spare. I was going over the chief motives for murder when you came. First and foremost there is love, including jealousy. We can count that out in this case, I guess."

"I don't know about that," interrupted Graham. "There is a man in the piece, you know—the 'damn German.' I've got something to tell you about him later."

"All right, we'll let love stand for the present. Well, next there is anger; sudden, unpremeditated crime that leads to. And, according to the kitchen maid, Miss Hurst was in one of her furies. Rather an excitable young lady, I should judge—what the highbrows call temperamental. Then there is the money motive—greed. If Mr. Hurst had been threatening to cut her off without a penny, why, there comes in that motive. As to fear, well, they say she isn't afraid of the devil himself, but she might be afraid on somebody else's account. If the man with her that night—her lover, we'll say—was mixed up in something criminal, and Mr. Hurst threatened to denounce him—"

"What an imagination you have, Flint; mine is nothing to it," laughed Graham.

But Flint paid no attention to his frivolous interruption. His hands thrust deep in his pockets, he strode to and fro, frowning in perplexity, threshing the matter out more to himself than to Graham.

"The trouble is there are too many possible motives. Take a single good strong one and you know where you are; but when every darned one you can think of fits, why, it makes you suspicious. Like a lot of manufactured things, it looks too perfect to be real. Then look at that find of mine. Who in his senses, when he has murdered a man, is going to leave a thing like this on the spot to shriek out, 'I'm the guilty party'? Might as well leave his visiting card at once. The whole thing looks too confoundedly obvious; sets me to wondering if that handkerchief with its bloodstains isn't a plant."

"But who—" exclaimed Graham.

"That's just it—who? The only persons, leaving out your hypothetical burglar, known to have been in the house, are Mrs. Hurst and the unknown man heard by the kitchen maid."

"And Arthur Fitzpatrick," added Graham to himself, Philippa's bracelet flashing before his eyes. Estelle had left her gloves in the library—why not her handkerchief? Might not Fitzpatrick have seized upon it as means of diverting suspicion from himself? Then another thought edged its way into his mind. If Fitzpatrick were convicted of the crime, he would be eliminated as a rival—Evadne might be won. It lay with him, and with him alone, to turn suspicion upon her lover. He dallied with the thought for a moment, then cast it from him with the sort of repulsion one feels when one touches a snake. For the very reason that he looked upon Fitzpatrick as his rival he could not betray him. Besides, there were a dozen chances that he was innocent. But hurl a "Get thee behind me satan," in the vernacular, at the insidious thought as he would, it kept returning. "I'm not satan, I am Justice," it argued. Whereupon the abandoned future head of the firm of Graham retorted shamelessly, "Hang Justice." Of course, if an innocent person should be convicted of the crime, he would be obliged to tell what he knew, but till then—. Having thus finally routed the tempter, he dragged his mind back to what Flint had been saying.

"I think I can put a name to your unknown man; I've an idea it's Brown," he said.

"Sure it isn't Smith?" scoffed Flint.

"I'm not joking," Graham persisted. "I'm almost certain his name is Brown. He wears a gray fedora and shiny shoes, and he says Gott in Himmel when you tread on his toes."

Instantly Flint was serious. His insignificant face became significant; his easy, commonplace manner changed. "Go on, tell me what you have found out," he commanded.

Graham, inwardly marveling at the meekness with which he obeyed, opened his pocketbook, took out a piece of tissue paper, unfolded it carefully, and produced the green spangle. "I found this caught in the fur cuff of a German named Brown," he said. "What I am keen to find out is—does it match yours?"

Flint reached quickly for his wallet, produced the first-found spangle, and laid it carefully on the table. Then he produced a small magnifying glass from one of his many pockets, and, placing the two green disks side by side, studied them intently.

"Twins!" he exclaimed jubilantly. Now go on and tell me the whole story."

He listened attentively while Graham, who possessed a pretty knack of narrative, related his exploit, beginning at the moment of his collision with Brown, and ending with his sudden realization that the key was on the wrong side of the door through which Mr. Brown was said to have passed.

From time to time Flint nodded appreciatively, but he interrupted Graham's recital once only to ask for a description of Mr. Brown No. 2 across the aisle.

"That was Garvy all right," he said, and motioned to Graham to continue. He did not speak again till the account was finished. "That was good work, Mr. Graham," he said then.

Graham was more elated than when he won his first lawsuit. His pride, however, soon had a fall. He was obliged to confess that he had not noticed the number of the street where the shop into which Mr. Brown had vanished was located.

"But it is very important," persisted Flint. "Bigger things than Hannibal Hurst's murder may be involved. You must have some idea where you were."

Graham shook his head despondently. "I didn't notice—I just followed on after Brown."

"Didn't you see anything but Brown's hat?" groaned Flint.

"Why, I suppose I did, but I don't remember anything in particular, except that there was building going on at the corner where we left the trolley. I recollect slipping in behind some scaffolding to watch which way Brown was going."

"That's something!"

"Then I think I'd know the shop where I bought my ulster. There can't be two such hideous collections of garments in town."

Flint twisted his lips into a sickly smile. "Do you suppose you could find the place if you tried going over the ground?"

"I don't know; things might come to me."

"Well, we can only try. We'll start at once."

"I'm waiting to see Mrs. Hurst," pleaded Graham.

"Send word that you will see her later. Mrs. Hurst can wait; this matter can't. We've lost a week already."

There was something unbelievably compelling about Flint. While the detective was busy at the telephone, Graham found himself obediently sending Denis with a message that robbed him temporarily of the interview to which he had looked forward for days, and shortly afterward dragging his unwilling feet from Evadne's door.

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S WIND WAGGLE

"Have we any of those things with holes in?" asked Uncle Wiggily of Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy at breakfast one morning.

"Things with holes in?" repeated the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Do you mean buttons to sew on your shirt?"

"No, I mean those long things, like white shoe strings, only they have a hole through them like a lemonade straw," went on the bunny.

"Oh, you mean macaroni!" laughed Nurse Jane.

"Yes—that's it—macaroni!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Have you any macaroni in the bungalow?"

"I suppose so," said Nurse Jane. "But don't tell me you want macaroni for breakfast! Do you?"

The bunny gentleman shook his head and, at the same time, his pink, twinkling nose, for his nose was fastened to his head.

"I want," he said, "a piece of macaroni with a hole through it like a lemonade straw, with which to make a wind waggle."

"What in the world is a wind waggle?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I'll show you, if you get me a stem of macaroni," promised the bunny. And when Nurse Jane brought him the long thing, Uncle Wiggily stuck one end of it through a hole he had made in a small, round pasteboard box with a cover on.

"It looks more like a pipe than a wind waggle," said Nurse Jane. "Is it a pipe, Wiggy?"

"It's a wind waggle," gravely he informed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Here, blow through the macaroni stem and see what happens." So Nurse Jane blew.

Off flew the cover of the box and from it there shot into the air a cloud of sugar which the bunny gentleman had put in. The sugar fell in a shower on Nurse Jane's face, around her mouth, and she stuck out her tongue to get it off.

"That's my wind waggle!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You see you blow your breath—that's the wind—in through the macaroni pipe. And the cover waggles off and out pops the sugar! Isn't it clever?"

"Yes, but what's the idea of it?" asked Nurse Jane, still picking grains of sugar off her face with her tongue. "It's jolly and delightful and surprising and all that sort of thing, don't you know, but why?"

"Hush-" whispered the bunny, putting his paw up to his pink, twinkling nose cautious like. "Tomorrow is to be April fool's day. All the animal children will try to play jokes on me. But with my wind waggle I'm going to get ahead of them and play tricks today."

Filling his pocket with sugar, the bunny gentleman soon hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow, carrying his wind waggle.

"What's that?" asked Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, when he met the bunny gentleman.

"It's my wind waggle. Would you like to try it?" asked Mr. Longears. And when Sammie blew through the macaroni tube off waggled the cover of the box, up in the air blew the sugar and down it came on Sammie's stuck-out tongue, which the little rabbit boy liked very much.

"A wind waggle is fun" he cried.

Uncle Wiggily put more sugar in the box and hopped along a little farther until he met Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel.

"Try my wind waggle!" said the bunny. And when the sugar fell on Johnnie's tongue Uncle Wiggily cried: "April Fool!" And Johnnie laughed.

So Uncle Wiggily had a lot of fun with his April Fool wind waggle until, all at once, he met the Woozie Wolf.

"What's this wind waggle I hear you have?" growled the Wolf.

"Try it!" invited the bunny.

"I will, but after that I'll nibble your ears!" growled the bad chap.

He blew through the macaroni tube, expecting sugar to come out of the box, but, instead, Uncle Wiggily had slyly slipped in some sand, and the sand got in the eyes and nose and mouth of the Wolf, who howled "Goopie! Goopie" and ran away with his tail between his legs.

So this teaches us that, after all, jokes, if they do no harm, are often useful if you meet a Wolf. And if the teaspoon doesn't try to stretch itself to grow big like a coffee cup, and break its handle doing so, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's April Fool.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED

For Kidney Troubles Druggist Would Only Recommend Alvita

After seeing medicinal products come and go for 35 years, a prominent Pasadena druggist proves to himself the virtue of Alvita Tablets in kidney and bladder trouble. E. A. Rosenberger of 48 S. Fair Oaks, Pasadena, Cal., says:

"Before allowing myself to become enthused over ALVITA Tablets, I tried them out on myself. I can say truthfully that I am surprised at the results of the tablets. I have had a lot of trouble with my bladder and kidneys and have tried many remedies from the store. The only thing I would recommend today for prostatic and bladder troubles is the ALVITA Tablet. I got complete relief from my own trouble, which satisfies me of their merit."

Alvita is the recent scientific discovery which brings lime, iron and phosphates to you in a vegetable form. It is prepared from the deep-rooted alfalfa plant in highly concentrated tablets. Alvita has proved especially beneficial in building up weakened, rundown conditions, and in overcoming kidney, bladder and prostate trouble. No matter what you have tried, try this remedy of Nature now.

CHURCHMEN GIVE TRUCKMEN FIGHT

League Leaders Win In Final Quarter But Outcome In Doubt Through Game

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

The M. E. churchmen proved they could play basketball against the Huli Trucks if they could not play against any other team. The demonstration was staged last night at the Harvard High school, and was so convincing that many of the spectators present expected history to repeat, and see the truckmen turned back at the end of the second round just as they were turned back by the churchmen at the end of the first round.

The truckmen won last night's contest, but only in the last part of the final quarter. After the lead had been tossed back and forth, and the first quarter ended with the count knotted, the churchmen pulled away from the truckmen in the second quarter, to lead 19 to 12, at half time. The truckmen cut down the lead in the third period to 23 to 20, and in the final stanza, passed up their opponents.

It was a game marked by fast and snappy playing, plenty of action, but practically free from fouls. Only four fouls were called during the entire game by Coach Eugene Wolfe, who handled the whistle, and he was watching them pretty close. Two fouls were on the truckmen and two on the churchmen. Whitney (M. E.), led the field in scoring, getting 15 points, while Fanset (H. T.), was next with 14 markers. The detailed story of the game follows:

First Quarter

Huli Trucks choose east basket, M. E. church takes west basket. The truckmen got the tossup, but C. Jensen (H. T.), misses. Dick (M. E.) and Wolfe (M. E.), take the ball down the court, passing to Whitney (M. E.), who opens the scoring by dropping in a basket one minute after play started. C. Jensen evens up count, 2-2, when he locates the hoop from near center after several tries, and Fanset puts the truckmen in the lead with a basket, 4-2. Ward (M. E.), makes it even-Stephen again, 4-4, and a moment later puts the churchmen out in front with another basket, 6-4. Fanset ties the count with a basket, 6-6, and shoves his team into the lead, 8-6, with a basket from under the goal. A moment later he widens the margin to 10-6. Whitney cuts down the lead, 10-8, and Ward makes it 10-10 as the quarter ends.

Second Quarter

The count remains knotted for six minutes after the second period opens, both teams striving desperately to get a goal. Hallam breaks the tie, only to have Denny even up the count a minute later, 12-12. Three minutes of hard playing passes before Whitney finds the hoop again, 14-12, putting the churchmen in the lead. He repeats, to make it 16-12. Wolfe makes one free throw on Doll's foul, hacking, 17-12. It was the first foul of the game. Wolfe missed the second shot, Whitney caught the rebound and tried for goal. He succeeded while surrounded by three truckmen, making the score: M. E. church, 19; Huli Trucks, 12, as the half ended.

Third Quarter

Ward opened the scoring in the second half for the churchmen by dropping the casaba inside the hoop two minutes after play started, making the count 21-12. C. Jensen missed two free throws on Dick's foul, pushing, but a minute later made a goal, cutting down the churchmen's lead to 21-14. Five minutes of hard and constant playing passed before another goal was made. Fanset shot it, 21-16. Denny followed in quick order, 21-18. With less than a minute to go, the churchmen started out to strengthen their lead, which was being threatened, and Whitney scored, 23-18. Doll's goal sank inside the hoop just before time was called, making the score: M. E. church, 23; Huli Trucks, 20.

Fourth Quarter

Fanset cut the lead down to 23-22 in less than a minute after the final period started. C. Jensen evened the count again when he made the first free throw on Dick's foul, pushing. He had a chance to put his team in the lead, but missed the second throw. One minute later Doll put the truckmen out in front, 25-23. C. Jensen injured in trying to get the ball, but stayed in the game. McCormick went in for Hallam, forward for the churchmen. McCormick tied the count, 25-25, with his first attempt at goal from near the center of the floor. C. Jensen put his team in the lead again, 27-25, with a spectacular shot. Fanset made it 29-25 with a backhand shot. Whitney shot from one corner and cut down the lead, 29-27. He made it 29-28 on a free throw, E. Jensen, holding. Doll strengthened the lead, 31-28, and C. Jensen made it 32-28. Thirty seconds to go. Neither team scored and the game ended: Huli Trucks, 33; M. E. church, 28.

The lineups:

SPORT CHATTER

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 31.—That the promised showdown in the heavyweight situation will develop within the next 24 hours, is forecast today by the fact that Eddie Kane, man of business for Tom Gibbons, was speeding east toward a final rendezvous with local promoters while Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, was reaffirming his promise to come out of the silence by tomorrow. Accompanying Kane is Jimmy De Forrest, matchmaker for the Polo grounds, who wants Gibbons for a bout with Gene Tunney and may get him if the Wills proposition pulls up lame.

The important money for Gibbons is in the Wills match, for which he probably can get as high as $150,000. He would be doing extremely well to cull half that amount from the proceeds of a Tunney bout.

Kane, in fact, has already made known his stand by declaring that Tom Gibbons is ready to dally with Wills at the drop of the bag. De Forrest made the trip to Chicago with the idea of beating the milk fund promoters to the punch, but Kane's footwork was dazzling. He merely agreed to a Tunney bout in the event that the Wills fight fails to materialize.

That has left the matter in the hands of the obdurate Mullins, who is waiting for a Dempsey match and is in a fair way to get flat feet. Inspired oratory has been squandered on Patrick in an effort to convince him that a bird in the hand is worth two in the movies, and at last reports he was beginning to weaken.

His final word was that he would give a definite answer to Tex Rickard, acting on behalf of the milk fund show tomorrow.

The Mullins decision will be taken up in detail, and from that point the jockeying will begin. It is understood that Mullins wants $200,000 for Wills' end of a Gibbons bout and has about as much chance of getting it as "One-Eyed" Connolly on a sightseeing tour.

Rickard May Promote Hockey Game On Coast

NEW YORK, March 31—Reports circulated to the effect that Tex Rickard planned to interest himself in the promotion of hockey on the Pacific coast were affirmed in part when he admitted that negotiations had been opened with California interests.

"I have had some negotiations, but the matter hasn't gone far enough for me to say that I have really become interested" Rickard declared. "It is just one of my irons in the fire and nothing may come of it."

Rickard, who is generally regarded as head of the proposed Eastern Hockey league, has a personal representative on the coast in C. T. Whytock, who is said to be assisting in the formation of teams in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Oakland.

The finishing touches will be put on track Saturday when the grand finale by way of the annual Central league meet comes off on Broadway field with the crack teams of six Central league schools competing.

Coach Normal C. Hayhurst of Glendale, who was appointed league track manager at the beginning of the season, promises some real competition for his athletes in the five team of the other loop institutions.

Although Glendale is rated favorably to come out on top, the victory will not be accomplished by any laggardly efforts. Glendale stars will have a pile of competition in the other demons of the cinderpath.

Local Possibilities

"Seedy" Maydwell can be pretty well banked upon to do well in the 440 and the 880, "Daily Dozen" Purdy should be up in front at the finish of the 220, and Glendale's sprinters, Wykof, Slocum and Purdy should find easy pickings in the 100-yard dash. In the mile, Monty Montgomery is practically invincible once he gets out in front with his elongated legs.

In the low hurdles de Parcq has shown his stuff as well as in the shot put and the discus heave. Bill Bradbury and Squires usually pull off a strong-man act in the shot and the discus. Bud Elliott in the recent meets has chalked up his points in the broad jump, and the pole vault. Freddie Guerdat has done as high as five feet ten in the high jump and should not finish anywhere below second Saturday.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, March 31.—There is talk going the rounds of the inside circles that Dempsey will appear twice in bouts on the Pacific coast before fall is well established. The statement of the California Boxing commission that it was not interested in the action of the New York body in disbarring the champion lends color to this gossip.

But it takes two to make a fight and the writer wonders if there is a good heavyweight in the country who is willing to risk the displeasure of the New York commission and its allies by taking the small loser's share of a bout with the titleholder in exchange for a six month's suspension.

It looks doubtful. There are twenty-seven good boxing states bound by agreement to respect one another's rulings and it is hardly likely that Gibbons, Renault or any other big timer would like to count himself out of the picture for half a year.

In the meantime when any bout that does not look safe for a top liner is mentioned the prices named make the average promoter want to commit suicide.

Gibbons places the value of his services as an opponent for Harry Wills at $200,000 and then there is Jack Kearns' plea for a responsible promoter to come fordward with an offer for a Dempsey-Wills go. Kearns merely asks that aforesaid responsible promoter offer Dempsey $500,000.

How small seems the figure quoted in Gene Tunney's defi to Gibbons who offers Tommy a guarantee of $75,000 to meet him. At that this is more money than the St. Paul fighter ever received for a bout and he would not have to go out of his class to grab it.

Jersey Jones offers Eddie Brady, of Brooklyn as a trial horse for Edouard Mascart before the Frenchman goes against Louis (Kid) Kaplan. Brady is not a champion and does not claim to be but any featherweight that can whip Kid Sullivan, Bobby Garcia, Babe Herman, Joey Sanger, Freddie Jacks, Ernie Coozleman, Johnny Shugure and a lot of other good boys and hold off Kaplan, Terris, Sammy Mandell and Jack Bernstein may be regarded as qualified to give the French feather a real test as to his ability.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 31.—Babe Ruth is not likely to break his home run record of 1921 this season—nor in any other season to come. The fifty-nine mark that he set four years ago almost certainly will stand as his high water mark.

The Babe is getting fat. Unquestionably fat. Despite all his boiling out at the Hot Springs and all his training and dieting down here, he still could do with a loss of ten pounds without hurting him any. But that Ruth's fat is the fat of high living is questionable. Rather it seems to be the kind that years always bring to a certain type of athlete.

For Ruth from now on, the problem is not so much making a new homerun record as it is one of keeping his weight down within playing limits. He probably can do this for several more years if he wishes. But the question is whether his temperament will stick it out under the strain of dieting and constant training. Will he not some day throw fame overboard, relapse into plain, fattish George Herman Ruth and let the dead past bury its dead? It is torture for some fat men to keep within limits.

Ruth's weight is not seriously affecting his playing for the moment. He came in the other day on a short fly and made a beautiful catch. He goes around the bases on his toes and when he hits he slams the ball to regions that it never visited before. He will bang many a home run this season, no doubt—the pitchers will pitch to Ruth now, where once they were loath to do it.

None the less Ruth stands out as one of the prominent cogs in the machine in which Manager Huggins expresses his hope and confidence of winning another pennant. With Meusel, Ruth and Combs (who replaces Witt) in the outfield, the Yanks will do a good deal to offset some of the other classy outfields of the American League—a set of outfields, by the way, that outclasses the National League's outer gardeners.

The substitution of Combs for Witt was one of several important changes made by Manager Huggins this year. The long Combs should prove a more valuable man than Witt, owing to the fact that he is taller, rangier and perhaps a little faster than Witt. Witt's position, as lead-off batter, has been taken by Dugan; and Combs, who hits behind him, thus far has shown skill and adaptability to that position in the batting order.

Another of the changes was the trade which brought Urban Shocker to the Yanks and sent Joe Bush to the St. Louis Browns. Both Browns and Yanks profess to believe they benefited by the trade. In any event, if Shocker comes through with a good season he may put the Yanks in the pennant fight by a fine margin.

Many persons are inclined to think that Shocker is the best pitcher in the American League. Maybe he is, however he does not combine pitching with batting ability as Bush did. He is not likely to win any of his games with his bat.

Shocker may win for the Yanks as many as 25 games. If he does, the Yanks should figure in the pennant chase. And Miller Huggins says he expects not only to figure in it—he expects to win it.

"It will be a tough race," he concedes, "but we are a better team than some managers seem to think, and we'll show them so when the season starts."

TO-NIGHT'S CARD

VERNON—Dode Bercot vs. Bobbie Barrett, main event, ten rounds; Roy Cliffe vs. Ernie Owens, semi-wind-up, six rounds; Billy Kennedy vs. Benny Dotson, six rounds; Billy Bunch vs. Bobby Herman, four rounds; Pete Stagg vs. Johnny Gerarden, four rounds.

GIBBONS-TUNNEY BOUT LOOMS BIG

Agreements May Be Signed Today; Wills Is Still After Tommy

NEW YORK, March 31.—Within a matter of a comparatively few hours, Eddie Kane, acting for Tom Gibbons, will embellish the dotted line with a signature calling for Thomas to dally with either Harry Wills on May 29 for the benefit of the milk fund or Gene Tunney on June 11 for the benefit of those immediately concerned. One of the three men named probably will be the next heavyweight champion of the world. The east, skeptical as always, has at last come to believe that Jack Dempsey will in future do all of his punching on a commutation ticket.

Kane, as befits a man of big business, has issued an ultimatum, giving Wills until noon today to accept or reject the milk fund offer. Paddy Mullins, when informed of this state of affairs, merely smiled. Mullins also does Wills' smiling for him, it seems.

If he is still at it by noon, Kane declares he will sign for the Tunney affair without delay. The latter already has said it with fountain pens and is awaiting the verdict in Chicago, from which point he can start east or west as the situation warrants. Tunney has offers under consideration from California promoters to meet Young Stribling and Tommy Loughran and will accept either or both if the Gibbons proposition runs into a siding.

Outcome Uncertain

The indications were today that nothing of the kind would happen. Mullins, a man of his word and not many of them, has stated that he will wait until tomorrow in the forlorn hope that Dempsey will have something to say for publication. Tomorrow, according to Kane, will be just a day too late. The probability is that Gibbons and Tunney will be matched by that time and the heavyweight situation will be more complicated than ever before.

A Gibbons-Tunney bout will prove nothing beyond the fact that one of them punches more frequently than the other. It would go the limit of 15 rounds and at the end Wills would still have to be accounted for. A Gibbons-Wills match would at least establish the identity of the leading heavyweight contender who would in time become recognized as the champion if Dempsey remained in the silence for a protracted period. That is one reason Kane would rather do business with Wills than Tunney. Another is that he has given the milk fund people his word to consider their offer before all others. A third involves the fact that the golden harvest moon would shine more brightly at the milk fund show.

However, the other side of the story is that Mullins, in spite of all he has been told to the contrary, is disposed to wait for Dempsey. But, according to the present outlook, time, tide and Kane wait for no men.

TO NIGHT'S CAGE GAMES

For the first time since the Glendale Merchants' basketball league started, the Radios and the Standard Oilers will clash tonight at the Harvard High school gym. These two teams were scheduled to meet in the first round, but the game was postponed, and tonight's battle will be the first test of strength against each other. The game was shoved ahead one night at the request of the Oilers, who stated they would not be able to present a full team tomorrow night, while tonight's scheduled game between Calla Lily and the Christian church has been moved down the calendar to tomorrow night.

FINAL TRAINING

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—University of Washington's varsity and freshmen were to arrive here today to begin their final period of training for the annual California-Washington crew races in the Oakland estuary April 11.

FISTS TO FLY IN SHOW AT VERNON

Bercot And Barrett To Mix In Main Event; Owens To Meet Cliffe

The main event at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena tonight will be less than ten rounds, if the information handed out by the two principals, Dode Bercot and Bobby Barrett, can be taken seriously by fight fans. Dode and Bobby have been rematched to settle their argument started several weeks ago at Vernon, and which Bercot won by a narrow margin.

The semi-windup is expected to be a thrilling six-round event, for Ernie Owens and Roy Cliffe are booked to step out and slug until the gong or knockout interrupts the proceedings. Cliffe is just a youngster in the heavyweight game, but since he started six months ago he has been knocking them left and right.

On the preliminary end of the card will be Benny Dotson and Billy Kennedy, six rounds; Billy Bunch and Bobby Herman, four rounds, and Pete Stagg and Johnny Gerarden, four rounds. It looks like a sellout, and fans better make tracks early if they want seats.

Wills Fails To Get Bout With Gibbons

NEW YORK, March 31.—Eddie Kane, manager of Tommy Gibbons, announced that he had broken off all negotiations for a bout between Gibbons and Harry Wills, to be held at the milk fund show on May 2.

Kane had given Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, until noon today to accept the terms of the bout. When Mullins failed to reply to his ultimatum; Kane announced that plans for the bout were at an end and went into conference with James De Forrest, matchmaker of the Polo Grounds A. C. for a bout between Gibbons and Gene Tunney to be held on June 12.

BOXING NOTES

AT NEWARK, N. J.—Young Bobby Fitzsimmons, of Newark, knocked out Eddie Civil, Ashland, Ky., first round.

AT NEW YORK—Bud Dempsey, New York, and Sid Lee, New York, drew, ten.

AT PHILADELPHIA—Danny Kramer, Philadelphia, won easily from Tommy Nobles, England, ten; Harry Fischer, Philadelphia, got decision over Bobby Michaels, Philadelphia, six.

Printers, Dynamiters Meet Here Tomorrow

For the only practice game this week Coach Wolfe, mentor of the Dynamiter ball crew, has arranged a return tilt with the Franklin outfit of ball tossers tomorrow on Broadway field. Twice before the two teams have met and the honors now stand even, the Dynamiters taking the first game, 8 to 6, while the Printers copped the second, 1 to 0. As both teams have been polishing off the ragged edges of their playing and are getting oranized for the strenuous league schedules a good brand of baseball should be served up to the fans on Broadway field tomorrow.

TIGERS TO HAVE YOUNGEST TEAM

Manager Essick Believes His Club Will Improve As Season Wears On

By W. E. ESSICK
Manager of the Vernon Club, Pacific Coast League.
For International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 31.—The Vernon ball club this season will be the youngest Double-A club in professional baseball. Composed of young fellows, we expect to improve and get better right along as the season advances, the outlook for Vernon's chances is very bright.

While we do not predict winning the pennant, we do think this hustling bunch of youngsters will make a creditable showing against the other clubs in the league—clubs made up of older and more experienced players.

Two years ago we found ourselves with a club made up of players who had all grown old in baseball at the same time. Then President Maier decided to build up a new club of young players. He engaged Deacon Van Buren to scout for Vernon in all leagues, and at present we have thirty-one players in our training camp, of which only three were on our club two years ago.

The changes we have made since last season have added speed to Vernon and this should help us both on the defense and offense. We believe the new additions to our pitching staff will greatly strengthen that department. Vernon, as a whole, will be much stronger than last year.

It looks like all the clubs in the league have strengthened, at least on paper, and I believe there will be a great race for the pennant in the 1925 season.

TO JOIN FORCES

Five new wells were completed in the Long Beach oil field last week and about 2000 barrels daily added to the output. The new production took care of the weeks decline and closed the period with a daily output of 121,000 barrels. The increase over last week is more than 1,000 barrels.

At Torrance the production registered a decline of 1000 barrels last week. The loss was noted in spite of the fact that two new wells were put on production, the aggregate of which totaled 400 barrels.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, March 31.—Industrial stocks rallied moderately today from the confused and reactionary position in which they were placed by Monday's "bear raid" on the high-priced market leaders.

Most of the conditions which produced weakness in the market yesterday were present today; another ugly break in May wheat, high call loan rates, timidity on the part of the public and unwillingness to assume either a buying or selling position in the market. The bears also had an important rally in the failure of the American Can directors to declare more than the regular 1¼ per cent dividend on their common stock, and refusal to admit that there is any definite plan for either stock dividend or the splitting up of the stock into smaller units, either in the near future or at any time.

Professional traders for the decline were not able to stir up so much confusion in the market, nor to precipitate the variety of excited selling which yesterday resulted in the establishment of new low prices for the year to date. Consequently prices swung around within a short radius today, with the tendency toward slightly higher levels, but with aggressive forward leaders few and far between.

A better demand was seen today for the railroad and oil stocks. The rails have been fairly steady in recent sessions, and oil stocks, after showing surprising weakness about the middle of the month, refused to be stampeded like the high-priced industrial stocks.

The market approached the condition of stalemate shortly after the noon period, with trading dwindling to small volume and prices holding at slightly above Mondays closing levels. American Woolen, mercantile stocks and shipping stocks moved forward in good form in this period.

Both rail and industrial stocks showed considerable improvement in prices today. Extreme gains of from 5 to 10 points over Monday's low prices emphasize the improvement in buying demand for the industrial leaders, if not the inability of the bears to force prices to still lower levels. The stability of the market was further shown in its steadiness in the face of another sharp decline in May wheat on the Chicago board. Call money rates remained high on the last day of the quarter, but traders look for an easing up of the money market near the end of the week, when the quarterly dividend and interest payments come back to the banks.

Bearish traders sold the market quite heavily when American Can directors failed to declare anything but the regular dividend on the common stock and doubled their pressure when wheat broke 7 cents a bushel shortly after the noon hour. But these tactics failed to produce the frenzied selling of weekly margined speculative holdings, or to uncover stop-loss orders, as in the last week or two. Bears found it a little more difficult to cover their short lines and prices firmed up as a consequence.

The drop in prices of the last ten days has naturally called forth a number of "statements" about business conditions from prominent industrial and banking leaders of the country. These men, hardly without exception, see nothing but prosperity ahead, though disclaiming any belief or indorsement in a business boom, now or any previous time. Some buying of investment stocks today was based on these optimistic recitals, since even stocks of the caliber of United States Steel at present prices yield an income of about 6 per cent without considering the prospect of some future time sharing in the distribution of the $100-a-share accumulation of surplus.

Oil stocks were stronger on reports that the big marketers of gasoline were buying up all the available supplies of mid-continent crude oil and some refined oil, in anticipation of heavy consumption of gasoline this summer and fall. Reports of oil companies for 1924, now being made public, show satisfactory earnings, despite the demoralization in the oil market during most of 1924.

Railroad stocks were not plentiful at yesterday's closing prices and bears were compelled to bid a point or two above the previous close in order to cover short sales. Better prices were also recorded for the shiping stocks, with Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies in the lead. Chalmers and other active industrials improved their market position a point or more.

Strength in the market was most pronounced in the last hour, when buying orders flooded in in good volume and prices reached teh highest levels of the day. Though improvement was most notable in the high-priced market leaders, all stocks participated in the rally. General Electric at 263 was up nearly 12 points from yesterday's low, and Cast Iron at 164 was up 12. Mack Truck sold at 129¾, against Monday's low at 121½; Woolworth, up 3½; Marland, up 1¾; General Motors, up 1½; United States Steel, up 2½. Railroad and oil stocks were prominent in this final spurt of prices. Stocks of the mercantile companies were active and strong, as also were the shipping stocks. Strength of the market at the close was a contrast to the reactionary sessions of last week.

Grain prices improved near the close, but foreign exchange markets slumped, with French francs down nearly 10 points.

Stock sales today totaled 1,223,000; bonds, $11,123,000.

Film History Divulged At Lillian Gish's Trial

obtain money after leaving Inspiration Pictures in 1924. She "hoped and knew" he would win, he said she told him.

$1000 Weekly Wage

While working under the direction and management of D. W. Griffith, Miss Gish received $1000 weekly, but her only percentage was a slight interest in "Orphans of the Storm," Duell said.

What Duell asserted was Miss Gish's correct age was placed in the record when he recalled a specific conversation as having taken place "on her birthday, October 14, 1922."

"How old was she?" asked Col. Duell.

"Twenty-seven," replied the witness.

Duell was again questioned regarding his engagement to Miss Gish. He was asked whether he had told anyone of the engagement.

Duell said he had told Mrs. Gish, mother of the film star, prior to Mrs. Gish's departure for California. This was in June, 1923, he said.

Duell stated that Miss Gish was acquainted with his former wife before and after their engagement.

$2,000,000 Company

Attorney Max Steaur then took the witness in hand for cross-examination.

He asked Duell what the Inspiration Film Co. was worth on September 20, 1924, when it was liquidated.

Duell said about $2,000,000.

Steaur brought out that on September 20, 1924, when the new company, Charles H. Duell, Inc., was formed to replace Inspiration Pictures it had no assets except the Lillian Gish contract and a contract of Henry King, a director.

SAN FERNANDO ADVERTISING FUND URGED

Valley Association Promotes $150,000 To Publicize Entire District

An advertising fund of $150,000, to promote the advantages of the entire San Fernando valley, will be sought by the Greater San Fernando Valley association at a meeting to be held tomorrow night at the Hollywood Athletic club, 6521 Sunset boulevard, it was learned today when association officials announced their plans include co-operation with the Glendale City Planning commission, the Regional Planning commission and other bodies throughout the valley in improvement and widening of San Fernando road, improvement of Riverside drive, Victory boulevard and Sepulveda boulevard.

The association is also co-operating with the planning commissions to obtain a complete plan for highways, rapid transit, sewage, bridges, grade separation, industrialization, intensive agriculture, flood control and water conservation.

Publicity Fund

Rebuilding of Canoga, Chatsworth and Devonshire avenues also has the support of the association.

A fund of $10,000 already has been subscribed with which to finance the campaign to raise the $150,000 advertising and publicity fund, with a view toward obtaining a substantial increase in the population of the San Fernando valley through added industry.

G. B. Karr and L. T. Rowley are Glendale members of the board of directors.

The Glendale City Council last January made plans for the improvement and a title company has now nearly completed obtaining data on property owners, both bordering on San Fernando road and in the entire assessment district. The city will co-operate with the county and other districts bordering the highway in the improvement.

He Figured a Saving

that would pay for The Great Vacation

For long they had planned to someday take the car and the children, and really go somewhere—drive north, maybe, and stop at the gay places and the good hotels along the way. But it meant three or four hundred dollars for any such vacation—and it just didn't seem possible. Then one night he took pencil and paper and did a little figuring.

THIS man lives near Sawtelle and had been driving to and from his office each day. His figures showed that this was costing him almost $50 a month. The alternative was The Red Cars—at nearly $40 less.

|---|---|
| Distance both ways between home and office | 26 miles |
| Gasoline, oil and ordinary depreciation | 7c per mile |
| 26 miles at 7c a mile, per day | $ 1.82 |
| 27 business days at $1.82 | 49.14 |
| Parking at 15c per day | 3.90 |
| Total monthly cost of commuting by automobile | $53.04 |

Contrasted with this figure is the monthly commutation rate of The Red Cars—in this instance, $8.11. A saving of $44.93 a month.

The moral of this story is not for men who can afford to disregard ordinary living costs. Nor is it meant to put the automobile in the light of an extravagance. The contrary is true in so many cases.

The point is that The Red Cars perform a service that no automobile can possibly rival—from a standpoint of comfort and convenience, as well as economy.

A man saves more than money when he travels via The Red Cars. He saves mental strain at the beginning and the end of each day. And this means added power for work—a quicker attainment of the goal.

FORT GROUNDS TO PARK FLEET CARS

Military Reservation Thrown Open To 20,000 Autos For Pacific Parade

Through the courtesy of the commandant at Fort MacArthur, the upper military reservation at Point Firmin will be open for parking April 3, when the fleet sails. It is estimated that 20,000 autos can be accommodated. Motorists may reach the reservation by proceeding along Pacific avenue to Twenty-sixth street, turn right on twenty-sixth to Caroline, then turn left on Caroline to Military road, then right into reservation. This huge parking space will be under direction of officers and soldiers of the fort, with Captain Bray in charge.

The entire military establishment will be open to visitors for inspection during the day and there will be ample rest rooms. It is advisable to bring lunch. There will be two bands on duty and an aerial circus will be among the attractions.

No parking will be permitted on Pacific avenue from Thirty-sixth street to Roxbury, and from Roxbury to the Junction of White's Point road.

The road from White's Point to the south limits of Palos Verdes will be one way. Also from Western avenue at the junction of Redondo-Wilmington road into Palos Verdes estates will be one way.

Vantage Points

Excepting in the congested districts parking will be permitted in the residence parts of San Pedro and signs placed by the Automobile club of Southern California will give directions and parking privileges.

The 126 ships of the fleet are expected to line up at noon. As they will proceed up the coast it is suggested that the historic armada may be witnessed also along the beach from Topanga Canyon to Venice by residents of San Fernando Valley, Hollywood, Beverly Hills and Santa Monica Bay district. Residents of Pasadena, Glendale, Culver City, and southwestern Los Angeles may view the spectacle from Venice to Redondo Beach.

Traffic arrangements for the day were planned and will be put into effect by Captain Bray, of Fort MacArthur, Captain Cannon, in command of the county motorcycle squad, Captain Higginbaugh, in charge of the San Pedro division, and Don Doig and Douglas C. Rhodes of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Viewing from afar the councilmanic race in Glendale, certainly the city has no cause to complain as to choice.

There are four people seeking every office, literally speaking, and the one who is named should represent a majority of the minority which has been found to be a pretty good criterion of public opinion.

Selection of city councilmen should be given the same attention as the selection of a board of directors for a corporation, because they are just that. Politics and pettifoggery should not enter into the campaign, but the candidates should rest on their merits.

Should we be asked to list qualifications, first of all would come ABSOLUTE HONESTY. The second would be INTEGRITY. The third CONFIDENCE of the community. And after that the lesser things.

Mere popularity is no reason at all for a person being elected. Membership in social, fraternal, religious or patriotic organizations is no reason, either. Because they have nothing to do with the major qualifications.

So much for that.

In Sacramento one finds that confidence is placed in certain members of the Legislature regardless of race, creed or color. This confidence is based on their integrity, their honesty in dealing with their fellows. But once betrayed their fellow members can never overcome distrust.

It is a spirit of distrust in which the Legislature is trying to solve the highway financing situation. The governor has let it be known that "pork barrel" roads are being wished into the highway system. And every time a compromise appears near these same bugaboos appear.

Today it is one story, tomorrow it is another. The solution of the whole problem, perhaps, is to come through what the oil companies fear most. It is proposed to make them public utilities. While this may appear to be a retaliatory measure for their opposition to the gasoline tax, at the same time it is worthy of consideration.

The public has suffered long enough for the juggling of gasoline prices. It has seen the small companies "frozen out" in more ways than one person could recount.

Here's hoping that something is done. But it must be fair!

ROAD BUILDING PLANS

OXNARD, March 31.—With the completion of the state highway from Oxnard to Santa Monica rapidly nearing completion plans for starting the road to Oxnard city limits are rapidly going forward. The California state highway commission has plans for the construction of the highway on a straight line from Ocean View road to Oxnard. This will do away with a right angle corner at Oxnard boulevard. The proposed cut-off, as the angling piece of road has been termed, will run through the ranches of a number of farmers who have raised emphatic objections, and who have signed a petition against such a road. However, the commission is desirous of obtaining the right of way and is willing to pay for it.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, March 31.—Failure of Burbank to secure the University of California, southern branch, has created a new activity in an endeavor to establish new industries in the city. On the theory that the first thing necessary is to make it easy for bonafide prospective industries to acquire industrial sites, definite action has been taken by the chamber of commerce to bring about such a condition. A committee has been appointed to work out the industrial site problem. Creation of a holding company has been suggested.

A new lodge home has been opened by the Burbank Druid Grove on South Magnolia avenue. Open house was held on Saturday night when the public inspected the new building and enjoyed dancing and a program.

Attorney E. E. Kirk has been elected a member of the board of directors of the Burbank chamber of commerce to succeed A. E. Daley, who resigned because of lack of time to give to the work. O. J. Renfrew, secretary of the Greater San Fernando valley association will appear before the chamber next Friday to tell of plans of the association.

After serving fourteen years as president of the Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church, Mrs. J. D. Radcliff has resigned and Mrs. T. D. Buffington elected to fill the position. Mrs. Radcliff has consented to serve as vice-president.

Anson B. Edgerly has announced his withdrawal from the councilmanic race in the First district, Los Angeles, the San Fernando valley annex. He advises the election of Charles H. Randall, public ownership candidate who has filed his petitions with nearly 1000 signatures.

'WILD ANIMAL' ACT MAY BECOME LAW

Defense League Introduces Bill To Bar Such From Theatres

SACRAMENTO, March 31.—Tigers, lions, leopards and other members of the family of big cats, distinguished as "wild animals" when compared with elephants, seals, horses or dogs, will no longer appear in trained animal acts on the stage or in a circus, if a bill introduced by Mrs. Rosemonte Wright of the American Animal Defense League is made law.

Mrs. Wright says that as an officer of the law she knows there are trainers in California who "use atrocious cruelty in the training of animals." She quotes from Charles Ringling of the Ringling Brothers, and Barnum and Bailey Combined Shows, a statement that he has sold all his wild animals and that henceforth no performances in which such animals participate will be given.

The showman says however, there are some animals which seem to be interested and take a playful part in performances, such as seals, elephants, dogs, and horses. Felines alone are taught by rough methods.

ROAD TO CALVARY EDMONDS' THEME

Presbyterian Pastor Takes Congregation In Spirit On Way To Cross

As a preliminary to the celebration of the resurrection of our Lord, Jesus Christ, at the Eastertide, Rev. W. E. Edmonds led his audience in spirit to "the place called Calvary," at the Sunday morning service in the Glendale Presbyterian church, using the text: "And when they were come to the place called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the two malefactors, one on the right hand and the other on the left." He said:

"In these simple words does the inspired writer chronicle the most momentous event in the history of the world—'the place which is called Calvary.' Have you been there, not only for pardon of your sins, but for power, and to catch God's vision for your lives? We all need to go to Calvary, to understand its meaning and to yield to its purpose.

"I stand dumfounded as I see a world gone mad in so-called celebration of the birth of Christ, but no-one seems to be going wild over the tremendous fact of the Incarnation, namely, that 'God was in Christ, reconciling the world to Himself.'

"I stand dumbfounded as I see a world almost beside itself in an extravagant, superficial observance of the stupendous fact of the literal bodily resurrection of Jesus Christ that we call Easter. Thousands, led by movie and grand opera stars, and by silver-tongued orators, climb the hills early on Easter morning and engage in what seems almost like cheap celebration and desecration, rather than commemoration.

Why, in God's name, why does the world not understand that Easter means everything or nothing, in proportion to whether or not, when Christ rose from the dead, we rose with Him, and by faith are seated positionally with Him in the Heavenlies? If we then be risen with Christ, let us seek those things which are above. You celebrants of Christmas and Easter, make more of Calvary, for apart from Golgotha, your Christian and Easter celebrations are a farce and belong with the tom-tom of heathen deities.

Calvary's Message

"For what does Calvary stand? What is its message? Calvary is the place where sin comes out in its true colors. There are no mists at Calvary; it stands outside the rush and roar of the world. God is summoning us to Calvary today, we who have so oft made vows, only to break them; who have gone to the Lord's table professing to be the children of God, and have gone out to live like the worldling! These sins and weights and doubts, let us drag them out into the light of Calvary—for Calvary is God's finding-out place; Calvary is God's X-ray, where sin is revealed as sin, 'and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death.'

"Again, Calvary is the place of heartbreak. The Bible is full of records of heartbreak: Abraham, with his only son, on Mount Moriah; Jacob mourning over Joseph slain. But at Calvary, God's heart broke, as there in the darkness His Son bowed His head under the weight of your sins and mine and cried out: 'Why hast Thou forsaken Me?' Go thou to Calvary and see Him and learn the meaning of the Cross of Christ, 'for a broken and contrite heart, O God, Thu wilt not despise.'

Stands for Salvation

"Calvary is also a place where victory has been won. It stands for salvation, the complete defeat of the devil and the powers of darkness; here the debt was paid and, through faith in the atoning sacrifice, the sinner goes free. Calvary is the place of justification. Men often feel that there is something further to be done, but Christ said: 'It is finished.' But Calvary is not a terminal. We must 'go on to perfection,' or there will be no victory in life. A man may be truly saved and yet have no triumph over sin in his life. Many a believer is living a seesaw life spiritually, one day up and another day down; now winning, now losing. O, let us go back to Calvary; there is safety there.

"Again, at Calvary, a great claim is levied on all who believe. 'Ye are not your own.' What are you living for, for whom are you living? Who has first place in your affections? The claim of Christ is supreme. 'You must crown Him Lord of all, or you do not crown Him Lord at all.'

Absolute Surrender

"Then Calvary is the place where a great call comes to every believer, a call of absolute surrender. Are we willing to answer the call of Calvary to come to the Cross and have all wrong things put away out of our lives; to turn away from our backsliding, our self-planning and make Jesus Lord? To yield ourselves to the supreme control of the Holy Spirit?

"A company of friends were motoring in England and lost their way. They asked a man on the road to direct them.

"'Keep right on, sir,' were the directions, 'until you come to a cross and turn there to the right. Don't pass the cross.' And, as they drove on, he called out again most urgently: 'Don't pass the cross.' O, friends, don't pass the cross!

"And when they were come to the place called Calvary, there they crucified Him."

EVANGELIST SAYS WOMEN WRONG

'They Are Sounding Death-Knell Of America,' Preacher Shouts

By J. L. MEDDOFF,
For International News Service.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 31.—The daring tendencies of women today are sounding the death knell to America's future. And woman, generally termed "weak," but who, despite this handicap, has managed to wreck empires since time immemorial, is digging America's grave.

So declared Dr. H. W. Bromley, well-known Kentucky evangelist, in a talk before a church audience here during which he lashed unmercifully the girl of today usually referred to as "flapper."

"When women bob their hair, and smoke cigarettes, and wear breeches and suspender skirts, and chew tobacco, it is time for America to prepare her funeral march," he continued.

Woman's power is concentrated in her modesty, and if she would devote as much time on bringing out this power as she does on developing her external beauty, it would make the angels sit up and take notice. Woman was made before mirrors and they have been before them ever since.

Neglect of Home

Then he vigorously assailed the modern-day woman for her alleged neglect of the home to indulge in the frivolities of the times.

"Purity, modesty and dignity are the divine qualities of women. They should fight for the home. Homes have values that are neglected today for jazzing. We have jazzing in the church, in conversation, business and, in fact, life is all jazz. Mothers forget to do the things they should do and learn to divide responsibility."

The swiftness of the modern-day life has brought in its wake an intolerable divorce situation, Bromley asserted. Countless numbers of homes have been and are being wrecked by divorce, the "most horrible situation that ever confronted a nation," he declared.

Free Advice

Bromley then offered some free advice to those contemplating marriage. To women he said: "Don't marry a man for his money, but because he is a man." And men, he urged, should marry a woman who is a woman and not because she is externally beautiful.

Finally he reproved the country for extending the ballot box to woman. It did not bring good results, he said, and anyway "woman's grip is at the cradle and not at the polls."

"Reforms are needed in America and woman can bring them if they will stay on the job, for they are the only hope of the race," he concluded.

HOME BUILDING

BEDFORD, Ind., March 31.—Home building on a broad scale is in progress throughout the nation, according to a survey by the Indiana Limestone Quarrymen's association. Reports would indicate a residential shortage approximating $2,000,000,0000.

DETROIT, March 31.—Bad "hooch" is doing more to stamp out drinking than raids, arrests and fines, according to A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Maccabees, in an address here.

MARKETING PLAN FOR FIGS URGED

Peach Men Also Asked to Join New Scheme for Expediting Crops

WASHINGTON, March 31.—More than 9,000 peach and fig growers in California are being urged to sign a new marketing contract so that formation of two new associations which it is hoped will bring the industry to a front rank may be expedited.

The new contract has among its many unusual features, one, providing for the delivery of fruit prior to October 1. Another provision would leave to the discretion of the board of directors of the association the amount of advance for payment of fruit delivered.

The plan of reorganization for the creation of two new corporations—the California Peach and Fig Growers and the Delaware branch which would act as subsidiary, financing the activities of the association.

Production Area

The producing area in California would be divided into 33 districts according to the plan and members of each district would elect an advisory councilman and nominate a grower for the board of directors.

When 80 per cent of the growers sign the new contract, and members of the reorganization committee of 38 are confident more than that percentage will approve, the two corporations would be immediately formed. The contract covers the eight years from 1925 to 1932.

The membership association is to be financed by a revolving fund accumulated by deductions from amounts due growers. It is proposed that the fund shall begin to revolve as soon as it reaches $1,000,000.

NINETY-ONE-YEAR FARMER IS SPRY

Aged Nonagenarian Harvests 500-Acre Crop And 'Feels Fine'

BROWNS VALLEY, Calif., March 31.—Seated as the guest of honor at a banquet table decorated with ninety-one candles enumerating his age, George W. Smethurst celebrated the occasion surrounded by three sons and grandchildren and great-grandchildren numbering twenty-The sons are C. W. Smethurst of Roseville, George of Sacramento and Frank, who lives with his father.

The nonagenarian is in remarkable health, reads without glasses, and last year operated his mowing machine and harvested the hay crop on his five-hundred acre ranch, on which he has lived more than half a century.

Smethurst is a survivor of the pony express. He rode from Virginia City and was one of twenty men to re-establish the post in the Nevada city after the Indian massacre in the early sixties. He also installed the first Corliss engine ever used on a Mississippi steamer, when nineteen years of age and operated it for several months.

BLOOD POISONING REMEDY IS FOUND

Ordinary Aniline Dyes Are Used To Counteract Work of Bacteria

By EDNA MARSHALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, March 31.—Relief from the dread ravages of blood poisoning and a general advance in many branches of bacteriology are forecast as the result of a discovery growing out of several years of experimentation by Dr. John Woolman Churchman, a member of the staff of the Loomis laboratory and associate in hygiene at Cornell university's medical school.

The remedy, which has had good results in many cases in which it has been tried, lies in simply dyeing the bacteria with aniline dyes such as are used in coloring cloth. Experiments already have been made on infected throats, middle ear disease, suppurating or pus forming joints, infected wounds and general infections with great success. The treatment of pyorrhea is believed likely to be put on a sound basis by the use of an aniline dye, and it now seems probable that their use may make possible the cure of certain skin infections without incision, Dr. Churchman said, continuing:

Use Explained

"A particular dye is selected for a particular disease, as special dyes are used for special fabrics. For instance, gentian violet and acriflavine are used for skin infections usually. It is strange to note how certain dyes cause an extraordinary suspension of vitality in bacteria, even when used in weak solution. Used with proper care, they can prevent the growth of organisms thought to be quite resistant.

"Injected into the blood, aniline dyes have successfully combatted general infections or blood poisoning. Solutions of dyes of certain strength left in cavities like the joints have been found powerful enough to check the effect of the infection, without damaging the tissues. Their lack of irrigating properties has led to their use in skin infections.

"But because the tissues can so easily be damaged by dyes which may be poisonous in too large quantities, great care must be used in the cure. The results are difficult to interpret but indicate that many forms of septicaemia will be successfully fought with dyes in the near future."

COOLIDGE FRIEND SAILS FOR EUROPE

Frank Stearns, Considered Closest To President, Leaves White House

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Frank W. Stearns, of Boston, closest friend of Calvin Coolidge, sailing for Europe, wants it thoroughly understood that he is no "Colonel House." He is not going abroad to sound out sentiment on a new arms parley. He is not going over to see how the league of nations is functioning at Geneva. He is not going over to bring back official or semi-official reports to the president of the United States as to the state of mind in Europe. He will not even attempt to settle the foreign debts.

Mr. Stearns is not wholly resentful of the bright lights which beat about him as the nearest associate of the president, but he is worried lest his relations with "Calvin" be misunderstood both at home and abroad. Of course, the chances are that some attention will be paid to Mr. Stearns in Europe.

Sightseeing Trip

The American diplomatic representatives will not be unmindful of his position at the American court, if these plain New England days at the White House can be likened in any manner to the courts of Europe. And with the diplomats active there are other chances that European statesmen will endeavor to entertain Mr. and Mrs. Stearns in a manner befitting their "rank" at the American throne.

Mr. Stearns and his wife are going to Europe because they want to travel. They have been loath to leave Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge with whom they have spent virtually all of their time since the present occupant of the White House succeeded to the chief executive chair. The Coolidges have made no important trips, by rail or water, without the Stearnses, and the departure of the latter for Europe will leave something of a void about the executive mansion, although Mrs. Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Coolidge continues a visitor.

Ku Klux Klan Pastor Threatens To Resign

SACRAMENTO, March 31.—Declaring that he "believed my life work is not here," Rev. William E. Harrison, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church for a decade and prominent figure in the Ku Klux Klan, has announced that he would resign in the near future. It is said members of the congregation have become dissatisfied with the alleged political activities of the minister.
